PATTON'S CONDITION CRITICAL

General's Neck Broken

Doomed Boy Gets Code Message

His sight, hearing and voice destroyed by a spinal injury, Jimmy Sarchet, 14, of Detroit, gets a Morse code message from his mother, who taps it on his hand. Jimmy prays for a Christmas visit to church and the power to hear Yuletime hymns, but doctors fear the boy has an earlier rendezvous with death.

Patton Condition Is Now 'Critical'

By KINGSBURY SMITH

FRANKFURT, Dec. 10 (INS) — The condition of Gen. George S. Patton, Jr., was described officially today as "critical." Army physicians earlier described his condition as "satisfactory" after a fairly restful night He was fighting a grim battle for recovery but his colorful career as a soldier appeared to be at an end.

An official bullet issued at 6 p. m. said:

"The following report as of 3:30 p. m., Dec. 10, was issued on the condition of Gen. Patton:

" 'General condition maintained. Reacted to initial shock. Dislocation of vertebrae is responding satisfactorily to extension.

" 'Neurological signs unchanged. Condition remains critical.

" 'Brigadier Hugh Cairns, neuro-surgical consultant to the British army, and Lt. Col. Gilbert Phillips, officer commanding the surgical division of military hospitals for head injuries in the British army, are in consultation on Gen. Patton's case.' "

Col. Spurling

Maj. Gen. H. R. Ball, deputy chief of staff to Gen. Patton, told International News Service:

"The doctors' latest bulletin issued this afternoon leaves us still hopeful concerning the general's condition.

"The doctors are not yet prepared to say what chance of recovery he has. It was a terrible thing. We are all very much concerned.

"It was a 2½-ton truck that collided with the general's car, but investigation into responsibility has not yet been completed."

In Army circles it was felt that Patton, who greeted his accident with the words "Wasn't that a hell of a way to get hurt?" would be compelled to relinquish his tasks in the European theater of operations. Even if he overcomes his present dangerous paralytic condition, a long period of convalescence is believed inevitable.

When he is well enough to leave the hospital, Gen. Patton is expected to return to his Massachusetts home for care and treatment.

Genuine sorrow was expressed by officers and GI's alike over this tragic climax to Patton's brilliant

Arrows point to the third and fourth cervical vertebrae of the spinal column. Gen. Patton is said to be suffering from a simple fracture of the third vertebrae, with posterior dislocation of the fourth cervical, leaving him completely paralyzed below the level of the third cervical.

Flying Admiral Assails Merger

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 (AP) —A flying admiral said today merger of the Army and Navy might slow this country's scientific development.

The assertion came from R. Adm. Luis De Florez before the Senate military committee. Assistant chief of the Navy's office of research and inventions, De Florez said he considered competition between the services the single factor that did most to bring forth radar, the atomic bomb and other wartime discoveries.

Fire Leaders, Fine Wildcat Strikers Is Union Ford Plan

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN

DETROIT, Dec. 10 (INS) — The UAW-CIO today guaranteed to protect the Ford Motor Co. against unauthorized strikes and slowdowns by firing all wildcat leaders and fining all participants.

This action by the union may have a far-reaching effect in hastening an end of the General Motors strike involving 250,000 persons.

LEWIS SCHWELLENBACH
Labor Chief at Detroit Parley

It is the first company security plan ever offered an employer by an international union.

Employes engaging in uauthorized strikes ad slow downs would be fined $3 a day for the first offense, and $5 a day for the second offense.

The money would be deducted from their pay by the Ford Motor Co., and donated to the national infantile paralysis fund.

The plan was submitted to Ford officials at a conference in the Book-Cadillac Hotel as an answer to the company's insistence that the union must end the wildcat strikes which plagued Ford during the war.

John Bugas, -chief spokesman for Ford, had suggested a fine of $5 a day for all participants in unauthorized work stoppages.

Richard T. Leonard, director of the Ford division of the UAW, said in submitting the plan that it has the endorsement of all top officials of the international union.

In return for a guarantee of uninterrupted production, Leonard asked the company to agree to accept a fine for lockouts "or any action intended to provoke a strike."

Details of this plan, if accepted by the Ford company, will be worked out as negotiations progress. No amount for a fine against the company was suggested by Leonard today.

He said, however, the union will want the money contributed to its welfare fund.

Nazi General Ranks Ike Tops

By GEORGE TUCKER

(Copyright, 1945, by the Associated Press)

NUERNBERG, Dec. 10 (AP)—German army intelligence officers regarded Gen. Eisenhower as a "great military leader," above even German generals, because of his skillful military planning and his ability to "over-ride feelings and objections on political grounds in the interest of achieving the one thing that was important—the successful accomplishment of military operations."

The author of that statement is Maj. Gen. Erwin Lahousen, star prosecution witness and German army intelligence chief who evaluated the fighting qualities of various Allied armies from the German viewpoint in an exclusive interview with the Associated Press.

Gen. Patton was looked upon as the best and most feared of the American field commanders, Lahousen said.

The German army "underestimated" the American army at the start of the war, looking upon American soldiers as "well-fed football players," the German general said, but soon learned its error.

He said at the end of the war there was little difference, from a German viewpoint, in the American, British or Russian armies, but early in the war the Russians were better at exploiting breakthroughs and more daring in leadership compared with the British-American combination.

"In a tactical or dashing sense in military operations, Patton was no doubt the outstanding American general," Lahousen continued. "In order to be perfectly clear, I mean that Patton was outstanding as a leader of troops in the field.

"He had the necessary military and tactical ability to carry out operations that had been planned and prepared by Eisenhower, who was the great planner and who had the necessary political insight to carry out those plans, in contrast to the German generals who were experts on the battlefields, but who would have been as helpless as children had they faced a similar situation."

"Before the war, the opinion among the German army staff was that America was an extremely rich country, which had at its disposal all the resources needed to wage war, but that they would not be able to give war the leadership necessary to make proper use of all these resources.

"The opinion was based more than anything else on the impression that we had received about the American Army during the last war. And it was inaccurate. When we did get in contact with the American Army we found we had underestimated the quality of military, tactical and operational leadership."

Batavia Attack Now Feared

BATAVIA, Dec. 10 (AP)—Several thousand armed Indonesians were reported mobilizing in villages around Batavia today, possibly for an attack on the city, while British planes blasted Tjibadak, 50 miles from the capital.

Concentrations of natives were reported in Batavia's suburbs.

Court to Review Citizenship Case

The Supreme Court of the United States agreed today to review the case of Canadian-born James Louis Girouard, 43, of Stoneham, denied citizenship because of refusal to bear arms during the war.

Girouard, a Seventh Day Adventist, had expressed willingness to his draft board to serve as a non-combatant. In federal district court he was ruled an eligible to take the oath of allegiance as a citizen.

U. S. Atty. Edmund J. Brandon appealed the ruling and it was reversed last June by the U S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

DELAY HAW HAW APPEAL

LONDON, Dec. 10 (AP)—The House of Lords adjourned today without taking action on the appeal of William Joyce, (Lord Haw Haw) from his death sentence for high treason.

Ultraviolet Tree

NEW YORK, Dec. 10 (AP) —A 55-foot Christmas tree that will glow from invisible ultraviolet rays was erected today in New York's Rockefeller Plaza.

The tree, a Norway spruce, will be adorned with 700 10-inch balls especially prepared with fluorescent paint. At night three beams of mercury light will transform the globes into glowing spheres of red, white, green, yellow, orange and blue.

Locked Bumpers Save Truck in Freak Collision

GREENWICH, Ct., Dec. 10 (AP)—Police Sgt. James Healey said that the car of E. J. Zounek, 46, of Hasbrouck Heights, N. J., twice struck the pickup truck of Abe Tunick, 42, of this town, from behind and then, locking its front bumper in the rear one of Tunick's truck, prevented it from plunging down a 20-foot embankment.

"It was like a double carom in billiards," Healey said, explaining what police described as "one of the most unusual accidents on record here."

Healy quoted Zounek, who is in Greenwich Hospital with several fractured ribs, as saying he fainted just before his car struck the rear of Tunick's truck.

"Both cars went off the soft shoulder of the road," Healey said, "and collided again 95 feet distant from the first impact. Their bumpers locked, however, and Zounek's machine prevented the other car from plunging down the embankment."

Moon Will Hide

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 (AP)—A total eclipse of the moon—the first visible in the United States since 1942—will occur the night of Dec. 18.

If skies are clear, the eclipsed moon will look like a giant red Christmas tree bulb. Even at total eclipse the moon is never completely darkened by the shadow cast when the earth comes between the sun and the moon.

BRIDAL-TO-BE—Georgina Campbell, 28-year-old British columnist who was to have become Tommy Manville's eighth wife, said today—at New Rochelle, N. Y., that the ceremony was called off when the justice of the peace demanded $400 in addition to $600 previously agreed upon to perform the ceremony and pay for refreshments. "We'll get married in a few days," she added.

Another Call Spurs Hunt in Kidnaping

The telephone torturer of Mr. and Mrs. James J. Carlan, Chelsea parents whose 6-months-old baby, Ronald, was kidnaped Nov. 28, was believed to have made his fifth call this morning in an attempt to contact the mother, but he broke the connection when her husband answered.

Carlan told police the same thing had happened several times when he, instead of his wife, answered the phone. Police tried to trace the call. There have been seven threatening messages thus far, four of them obviously from the same man, two possibly from him and one from a woman.

The newest clue, given by a cab driver, started police activity in Cambridge, Soomerville, Arlington and Roxbury.

The driver, Samuel Marobelle, 47, Stoughton, who is employed by a Cambridge cab company, reported he had picked up a Negro and a white woman with a baby at Union sq., Somerville, early this morning. The woman got out at Broadway and Palmer sts., Arlington, he said, the Negro taking the baby to a restaurant in Tremont st., Roxbury.

Marobello said he did not see the baby's face, nor did he know whether it was white or colored.

Police were checking the addresses at which the cab riders were left. The taxi driver said the woman wore a brown sports coat but wore no hat. He described her as about 25, 5 feet 3 and weighing perhaps 140 pounds.

Her companion was a little older, 5 feet 4, approximately 135 pounds in weight and had a small mustache, Marobello said.

Chief Inspector John J. Kirby of Chelsea police was in Boston today on a special mission in connection with the kidnaping. He, Inspector John P. Sexton and two members of the State Police, Chief of Detectives Joseph Ferrari and Lt. John J. Dempsey, are still concentrating on the South and West Ends for a red-headed woman and her escort who are suspected to have made the ransom telephone calls to the Carlan home.

One call was traced to a South End cafe where waitresses described the couple and said the man had been telephoning there.

Their description of the woman accompanying this man corresponds almost perfectly with the woman described by a new informant, who saw her walking in Washington st., South End, with an infant carried under one arm.

Wandering along the sidewalk as though she were either drunk or in a daze, the red-haired woman was carrying a child about six months old dressed in a dirty bonnet and wrapped in a blue blanket, police were told by a woman whose identity they withheld.

Her attention first attracted by the amateurish way the young, bushy-haired woman was carrying the child, the woman informant trailed her and finally gave up the pursuit in order to telephone for police assistance.

Last night the man who had telephoned Mrs. Carlan the ransom demands and had threatened she would never get back her baby unless she ceased telling police of his calls was on the line again.

When Mrs. Rose Carlan, the mother, lifted the receiver a now familiar voice asked, "Have you got it ready?"

When she asked the identity of her caller she was told:

"That's up to you to find out."

"Have you got my baby?" she inquired.

"Have you got it ready? Get it ready and you'll get the baby," she was told.

Former WAVE Slain With Knife

CHICAGO, Dec. 10 (AP)—The unclad body of a strenographer, recently discharged from the WAVES, with a 12-inch bread knife thrust through her neck, was found today in the bathroom of her hotel apartment.

The killer left this note in lipstick on the wall:

"For heaven's sake, catch me before I kill more. I cannot control myself."

The body of Miss Frances Brown, 33, the breadknife thrust through her neck, its point and handle protruding beneath each ear, was found in the bathtub of her blood-splattered, rifled apartment when her roommate returned from spending the night with a friend.

Police Capt. Frank Reynolds said the apartment, in the Pine Crest hotel on the North Side, showed evidence of a struggle, and the killer's message showed peculiarities which included the use of "m" for "n" in the word "cannot," Capt. Reynolds said.

Miss Brown, formerly of Richmond, Ind., had been dead about two hours before her body was discovered. The police officer said it was lying backward across the edge of the bathtub, the head down, with a nightgown looped about the neck, concealing the knife.

Hub's Coldest Wave Brings Light Snow

Boston's weather bureau warned today that the coldest temperatures of the season would hit Boston tonight and continue through Wednesday.

The cold wave, accompanied by strong northwest winds, is heading southward from eastern Canada and will extend throughout New England and along the Atlantic seaboard to the gulf coast and northern Florida.

Although the weatherman in his forecast predicted light snow for tonight, he looked out his office window this afternoon and agreed that the snow had arrived ahead of time.

He said there probably would be a fall of an inch or more by morning.

He still stood on his prediction that the mercury would drop to as low as 20 degrees tonight with 20 to 25-mile-an-hour winds.

In New York the weather bureau predicted the metropolitan area would be covered by at least two inches of snow tomorrow morning. It began snowing at midmorning and low temperatures of 15 to 20 above were forecast for tonight.

Two Portuguese boys, sons of a naturalized citizen, were among 150 persons admitted to citizenship today by Judge Francis J. W. Ford in federal court.

The boys are Jose Gabriel Orfao, 17, and John Orfao, 11, sons of Joao Gomez Orfao, of Trenton st., East Boston. Judge Ford had the father take the oath for the younger boy.

Marshall Says Army Tip Right

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 (AP)—Gen. Marshall today upheld the accuracy of the forecasts the Army's intelligence division made regarding Japan's major military attack plans in the critical prewar days before Dec. 7, 1941.

MRS. ADELE B. SHEFFER

Marshall, questioned by Sen. Ferguson (R.) of Michigan, told a Senate-House inquiry the Pearl Harbor attack was "a slash but not a proposed invasion at all." He added the main Japanese offensive was aimed to the south, just as the intelligence division had estimated.

Earlier he had testified he had held the opinion in November, 1941, a movement by the Japs into Thailand and the Gulf of Siam area would involve the United States and Great Britain in war.

Ferguson noted that Marshall and Adm. Harold R. Stark, then chief of naval operations, had sent a memorandum to President Roosevelt Nov. 5, 1941, saying further Jap aggressive moves should bring retaliation if the Japs moved west of 100 degrees north in Thailand.

Ferguson brought out that on Dec. 6 Ambassador John G. Winant messaged Washington from London the Japs were on the move.

"That message that they were on the move meant war, didn't it?" Ferguson asked.

"I was of the opinion at that time the governments would be forced to accept a condition of hostilities," Marshall replied.

He said he thought Adm. Stark concurred in his belief that to permit the Japs to enter the Gulf of Siam would put them on the "back door of Singapore."

Marshall said there was no doubt in his mind at the time if Japan attacked the British in Asia the United States would become involved.

Ferguson asked about the Atlantic conference between Roosevelt and Churchill. Marshall explained he, Stark and Gen H. H. Arnold, Air Corps chief, had conferences with British military staff members headed by Field Marshal Sir John Dill.

"Did you know what our attitude was in relation to Japan's going any further on her aggressive steps in the Far East?" Ferguson pressed.

"Our policy was, in every way it seemed possible or suitable, to discourage any outbreak in the Pacific," Marshall replied.

Ferguson said when the President returned from the Atlantic conference Aug. 17 he called in the Jap ambassador and told him the United States would have to take steps to protect its security if there were further aggressive moves by Japan.

Ferguson wanted to know if Lt. Gen. Walter C. Short, in command at Hawaii, and Gen. MacArthur, in command in the Philippines, had been told about this statement by the President to the Japanese.

Marshall said they were not, as far as he could recall.

'Red Dawn' Writer Loses Court Tilt

Counsel for Mrs. Adele Blonden Sheffer, Winthrop, who won a supreme court ruling a woman has a right to change her mind, failed in Suffolk Probate court today to have the divorce suit of Prof. Henry M. Sheffer, of Harvard, dismissed.

Prof. Sheffer

William R. Scharton, counsel for Mrs. Sheffer, argued since Prof. Sheffer failed to contest her successful suit for divorce in 1942, precluded him from bringing the present suit. Judge Mahoney denied the motion.

A few days before the 1942 divorce became absolute, Mrs. Sheffer asked for revocation of the decree, saying she still loved her husband and she had been incorrectly advised.

When her plea was denied, she carried the case to the Supreme Judicial Court and in June, 1944, the full bench ruled the authoress of "Red Dawn" still was married to the professor.

She has filed a cross-action seeking separate support. She is now receiving $87.50 monthly temporarily alimony.

Prof. Sheffer testified she had been cruel and abusive to him from 1921 to 1927 and in 1941 and 1942.

He charged she became friendly with a student at Harvard and continued to be seen with him despite his protests.

In 1921, he said, she decided she wanted a movie career, and, against the advice of a Boston theatrical man, went to Hollywood.

He declared she remained there for a year and on her return went to Winthrop against his wishes and purchased a house with his money.

Young Mother Kills Husband, Parents Foil Two Suicide Tries

CHICAGO, Dec. 10 (INS)—A 22-year-old woman shot her husband, a former GI, when he threatened divorce, and then had two suicide attempts thwarted by her parents.

Her husband, Edward Warren, 27, died at Ravenswood Hospital. After the shooting, the wife, Lavina, attempted to take her own life with the same pistol. Her father wrested the gun from her.

Mrs. Warren rushed into the bathroom and slashed her left wrist with a razor, but her mother took it away before she could inflict any other wounds.

The shooting occurred at the home of Mrs. Warren's parents where the couple had been living with their 2-year-old daughter while their apartment was being renovated.

Police reported Mrs. Warren's parents said the couple had quarreled earlier in the day and that late in the afternoon the spat continued in a front bedroom.

Mrs. Warren told police her husband refused to go for a walk with her, but that he dressed and said:

"I'm getting out of here. You can get your divorce any time."

Mrs. Warren told police her husband headed for a dresser on which lay a pistol he used in his work as a night watchman at a railway company.

She said she beat him to the gun, then told him to get back.

"Go ahead and shoot," Mrs. Warren quoted her husband as saying.

She pulled the trigger, and he fell, shot through the chest.

Mrs. Warren told police she did not mean to shoot but that the gun went off while she was pointing it at her husband.

Ship Lands 570; 12 From N. E.

Less than 14 hours out of Le Havre, 570 troops aboard the Zebulon Pike which arrived in Boston today, got a scare when the ship turned on her course and headed for England.

All sorts of rumors buzzed from fore deck to fantail, but after three hours the ship put about again and headed for Boston.

On its arrival here officers disclosed a man had been stricken with appendicitis shortly after leaving France and it was decided to put into Falmouth, England. When his condition improved the course was again changed.

Among 42 New Englanders aboard were Lt. Donald Guertin of Anthony rd., Bedford; T4 Paul Davidson of New Bedford; PFC John J. Sweeney, Gould st., Malden, and Pvt. Edwin Durgin of Grover.

Told Curley Group Was Within Law

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 (INS)—A witness testified today prospective clients of Engineers Group, Inc., whose wartime operations led to the mail fraud trial of Mayor-Elect James M. Curley of Boston, and four other men, were assured the group's business was "within the law."

James E. Hamilton, sales manager of the Forse Corp. ofAnderson, Ind., testified he was so assured in November, 1941, when he investigated the possibility of obtaining defense contracts through the group.

Hamilton said at a meeting in Washington he asked Donald Wakefield Smith, an attorney connected with Engineers Group, whether fees for war contract brokerage services were "legal."

"Smith told me," Hamilton testified, "that such fees were legal as long as they were established for engineering and technical services, which the group was in a position to render."

Harry Donald Forse, president of the Forse Corp., testified he was led to believe that his firm could obtain important government contracts through the efforts of Engineers Group.

Forse said he dealt principally with James E. Fuller, one of Curley's co-defendants.

The witnes said after conferring with Fuller on the possibility of obtaining contracts for manufacturing shells, bombs and cartridges he was so impressed he made elaborate plans for expansion of his company's plant at Anderson.

Forse testified earlier he paid Engineers Group $4500 as a brokerage fee but received no government contract.

'Kidnaped Baby' Easily Found

HEMPSTEAD, N. Y., Dec. 10 (AP)—Gordon Speciale, speeding home because his wife had telephoned him "our baby's been stolen," was stopped by a patrolman.

Instead of a ticket, Speciale received police escort to the home of Mrs. George Vachuda, West Hempstead, who said she had found a baby on her lawn. Speciale identified the infant as the missing Gregory G. Speciale, 4 months old.

Detectives theorized some child had taken the baby to the Vachuda home, about eight blocks from the Speciale residence.

Beneficiary Of 6 Held in Death Probe

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 10—Police probing the weird marital adventures of Alfred Leonard Cline, 56, of Columbus, O., linked with eight women and one man who died or disappeared under mysterious circumstances, today sought a court order to exhume the ashes of one of the women.

Officials identified this woman as Mrs. Isabella Van Natta, elderly widow, whose name was listed in a notebook found in Cline's possession and who was last seen with him Nov. 17.

Chief Insp. John Engler said the woman, who died a month ago at Portland, Ore., and at first was thought to be Mrs. Delora Krebs, wealthy Chicago socialite, may have been Mrs. Van Natta.

Cline is said to have claimed the body as that of his wife and ordered its cremation the day after she died. Police said he inherited her estate, estimated at $250,000. The ashes were brought to Cypress Lawn Cemetery here for burial.

The records also show that the late Mrs. Laura Cummings, 75, wealthy widow of Winthrop, Mass., took a trip to Seattle with Cline in 1930, and was later persuaded by her attorneys to tear up a will in which she had named him beneficiary to $60,000.

On Aug. 10, the same year, Mrs. Cummings was treated for poisoning in a Victoria, B. C., hospital while on a visit with Cline. She died in Winthrop from natural causes in July, 1933.

Los Angeles police records disclosed that Rev. Ernest F. Jones, an English evangelist, died at Bakersfield in June, 1932, while traveling with Cline, two days after he named the latter sole beneficiary of an $11,000 estate. Police said Cline ordered cremation of the evangelist's body.

Three other persons whose deaths between 1931 and 1933 were attributed to heart attacks had named Cline as beneficiary of their estates. Los Angeles police said they were Mrs. Carrie May Porter of Santa Cruz, Cline's earlier wife, Bessie, and his brother-in-law, Lucas Creery.

Police said they had also been informed by Florida officials that a Mrs. Elizabeth Hanna Cline had died there in November, 1943.

Another disclosed death was that of Mrs. Alice W. Carpenter, 66, in October, 1944, at Dallas, Tex., who also named Cline her beneficiary.

Representing himself as her business manager, according to Dallas police, Cline had the Carpenter woman's body cremated. He had also forged her name to a series of checks, police here were informed by Dallas authorities.

Police are also searching for Mrs. Elizabeth Hunt Lewis, elderly Oakland woman, who told friends in September, 1943, she had married Cline and was going to Florida with him. Reports were being checked that she had died in Nevada City, Nev.

Cline's police record shows he was released from California State Prison at Folsom in 1943, after serving a 9-year term for robbery and drugging a Los Angeles business man. Police records at Denver, Col., disclose he served a 2 to 5-year term there about 15 years ago for forgery.

Ask State Seniority Rights for Veterans

Massachusetts Civil Service employes who return to their jobs within one year after military or naval service would be entitled to seniority rights just as if their state service had not been interrupted by the war, under a proposal to the legislature today by the State Civil Service Commission.

Gift for Hubby Ends in Divorce

Although her tardiness was caused by a shopping trip to buy a birthday present for him, her husband struck her and accused her of being unfaithful when she arrived home, WAVE Rosemary Ann Card of Corning, N. Y., testified in Middlesex Probate Court today. She was granted an uncontested divorce from Merrill A. Card of Everett, a sailor now stationed at Quonset Point, R. I.

Another WAVE, Stella Essegian of Montrose ave., Somerville, testifying for Mrs. Card said that she had seen Card strike his wife during a picnic at Silver Lake, N. H., last summer.

Mrs. Doris Rebello of Fairmount st., Arlington, was granted an uncontested divorce in the same court from Perry H. Rebello. She charged cruelty.

Mrs. Thelma Curran, formerly of Waltham, now of Cohasset, was given a divorce from Gerald C. Curran on grounds of cruelty and intoxication.

Mystery Illness Hits Malden Baby

Dianne Moran, 2½, fell unconscious from an undiagnosed illness at her home in Maynard st., Malden, today and was removed to Malden Hospital, where she was placed in an oxygen tent.

The child's mother, Mrs. Joseph Moran, found her lying on the floor. The mother called Dr. Allan Squires, who summoned a fire department inhalator squad after he could detect no pulse.

Dianne was revived by the inhalator and was taken to the hospital in a police ambulance, the inhalator still affixed to her face.

Wives See 3 Men Held in Thefts

Three attractive Hyde Park sisters sat in municipal court today and saw their husbands arraigned on charges of receiving stolen goods.

The three men, Vincent Cimino, 23, former racetrack exercise boy; Elmer J. Miller, 22, recently discharged from the Navy, and Henry G. Carnevale, 24, all pleaded not guilty. Judge Jennie Loitman Barron held Cimino and Carnevale in $1000 each and Miller in $300 for hearing Dec. 18.

Special Officer John J. Sullivan of Warren ave. station said stolen goods had been recovered in the house in Newbury st., Hyde Park, where the three couples lived.

Two Men Held On Girl's Charge

On complaint of a 17-year-old South End girl, Edward J. Roache, 33, of Commonwealth ave., Back Bay, and Joseph Iwasgki, 29, of Shawmut ave., South End, were arraigned in municipal court today on charges of criminal assault.

Both pleaded not guilty and were held in $5000 each for hearing Dec. 19.

Miss Emma I. Haughn, 34, of Newbury st., Back Bay, pleaded not guilty to charges of being an accessory before and after the fact and was released in personal recognizance for hearing on the same date.

GI Wins Savoy Bride

Sports $320 Suit, 1821 Wines

RAYTOWN, Mo., Dec. 10 (AP)—Former PFC Richard Bosse isn't kicking about the two years he spent in the Army in Italy; he thinks he "got a good deal."

Bosse, whose previous claim to fame was in high school football, said he married the daughter of the Baroness La Lomia, a family related to the House of Savoy, while he was in Naples.

He arrived home in a taxi which he had hired for the 300-mile trip from Jefferson Barracks, where he was discharged, and he wore a $320 pin-stripe suit which he said was made for him by a "Signor Nicola," personal tailor to Victor Emanuel.

He carried four bottles of 1821 vintage wines and brandies to augment the boxes of rare Italian glassware and linens which he had previously sent home.

His bride, formerly Miss Elena Calasanti, 23, is still in Italy, and Bosse said he hoped she would arrive next month.

Bosse, one of five brothers in the war, explained he was a coordinating agent in the air corps and he met his bride at a roulette table. Elena was a concert pianist who had been graduated from the Naples Conservatory of Music.

Bosse said he visited her about four nights a week under strict chaperonage and after almost two years of courtship they were married last Aug. 12.

Elena's mother had five big houses in the vicinity of Naples, he said, and until he left Italy he lived in one of them on the Mediterranean.

"There were 13 rooms," he said, "three maids, a cook and a general handyman to look after the place."

He said he hopes to go back some time to live after he goes to college for awhile.

Come today, tomorrow, every day—a treasure house of bargains not only at Christmas time but all through the year!

Lewis Blasts GM, UAW, Truman

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 (AP) —John L. Lewis today blasted the government, General Motors Co. and the CIO-United Automobile Workers.

The United Mine Workers chief told the House labor committee the government could settle the strike in 10 days if it would allow manufacturers a fair profit price.

He referred to the President's strike fact-finding boards proposal as an "evil, vile-smelling" mess

Turning to the G. M. strike, he declared:

"They are making more money now not making cars than if they were producing them full blast, because of the pres t tax laws.

"And the poor, blundering leaders of the UAW picked this time of all times to shut down General Motors.

"The dishonesty on one side by the company is equal only to the stupidity on the other side for that labor organization."

GI Prisoners Will Be Returned to U. S.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 (AP) —The approximately 5000 soldiers convicted by general courts-martial in the European and Mediterranean theaters and imprisoned overseas will be returned to the United States for confinement.

Acheson Denies, Hurley Repeats Iran Charges

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 (AP)—Maj. Gen. Patrick J. Hurley today charged Undersecretary of State Dean Acheson with wrecking a policy approved by President Roosevelt for fighting foreign monopolies, particularly British, in Iran and the Middle East.

Hurley, former ambassador to China, returned to the stand of the Senate foreign relations committee immediately after Acheson told of a meeting in his office in which participants almost came to blows over a charge by Hurley that a young assistant of Acheson had not had military service and should be in the Army.

Acheson denied an earlier assertion by Hurley he had wrecked American policy in Iran. Acheson said he had disagreed with some recommendations by Hurley and it was for that reason his office meeting was held.

Hurley today said the Acheson version of the meeting was incorrect.

He read into the record two letters from Former Secretary of State Stettinius and one from President Roosevelt to prove, he said, his proposals had been approved and were in fact American policy for Iran and the Middle East.

Hurley said last week underlings double-crossed him in China. Both President Truman and Secretary of State Byrnes later said they knew of no such actions concerning Iran. Byrnes also denied the charges as to China.

Atomic Secrecy Hit by Scientist

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 (AP)—A scientist testified today unnecessary military secrecy delayed production of the atomic bomb at least 18 months.

Dr. Leo Szilard, Chicago University physician, offered this testimony before the special Senate committee investigating atomic energy.

Senator Edwin C. Johnson (D.) of Colorado, asked Szilard about delays after the latter criticized the "system of compartmentilization" evolved by Army officers when they took over the atomic project in 1942.

Szilard explained Army officers asked scientists to work only on parts of the project and not discuss results with other scientists. He added this was "unnecessary."

2 N. E. Men Named On Palestine Board

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 (AP)—President Truman today named Judge Joseph C. Hutcheson of Texas United States chairman of a 12-member Anglo-American committee to make recommendations for handling Jewish immigration into Palestine.

Other American members include Frank W. Buxton, editor of the Boston Herald, and William Phillips of Beverly, Mass., former Undersecretary of State, ambassador to Italy and personal representative of the President at New Delhi, India.

Chinese Irregulars Abandon Mukden

CHUNGKING, Dec. 10 (AP)—Irregular forces inside the Manchurian city of Mukden have withdrawn on Communist orders as Central Government troops stood outside the city.

Troops of Gen. Chang Hsueh-Shih, previously reported moving into the city to welcome the Chungking forces, allegedly still were linked with Chinese Communists.

Smiling Chinese Gunmen Shoot Unarmed Marine

TIENTSIN, Dec. 9 (delayed) (AP)—An unarmed U. S. Marine sergeant was shot from a horse on the outskirts of Tientsin and wounded fatally, marine headquarters said today, when he encountered three Chinese civilians at a bridge.

The marine smiled and greeted the Chinese, who also smiled as they drew pistols and began firing.

The marine jumped into a canal. Two of the Chinese continued firing while the third held his horse.

The marine escaped to a village of mud huts, but villagers were afraid to help him. Obtaining a bicycle, he started back to Tientsin. He met a Russian woman who took him to her home, where her husband removed his frozen clothing and called the Marines.

The sergeant's name was not revealed.

The incident followed by four days the slaying of one marine and the wounding of a second by Chinese gunmen. After the previous shooting the Marines fired 24 mortar shells into a village where the gunmen took refuge.

Jap Farmers Warn of Riots

TOKYO, Dec. 10 (AP)—A warnng from influential farmers that race riots are inevitable without stronger government agrarian policies coincided today with Gen. MacArthur's second demand that Japan's feudal land system be altered immediately.

Fifteen farmer representatives from Akita Province in northeastern Japan declared muddled government policies have produced such lack of confidence that the rich Tohoku district may sell only 60 per cent of its rice crop to the government.

Meanwhile, continuing his roundup of war criminal suspects, MacArthur directed the arrest of 57 Japanese accused of atrocities against United Nations' nationals in Cabanatuan prison camp in the Philippines, in prisons, camps and hospitals in Japan proper and on the prisoner of war ship Oryoku Maru.

Jap Soldiers Still Menacing Luzon

MANILA, Dec. 10 (AP)—Armed Japanese soldiers still are menacing civilians in northern Luzon and Mindanao.

Military police reported today the ragged remnants of Yamashita's command even challenged Filipino guerrillas to a fight recently.

Chinese Reds Bar Foreign Rule

YENAN, Dec. 8—(Delayed)—(AP)—Gen. Peng Teh-Huei, vice commander in chief of the Chinese Communist armies, declared today the Communists definitely oppose any country obtaining a sphere of influence in any part of China.

Peng said he recognized there were elements and individuals in America—such as Patrick Hurley, Former President Hoover and Sen. Arthur Vandenberg—who feared the Chinese Communists would affiliate with Stalinist Russia, but asserted that their ground for such an assumption never have been made clear.

"The position of the Chinese Communists remains still for a free, independent and democratic China," he told newsmen.

Sister Kenny Tells of Goal: Clinics Throughout Country

Sister Elizabeth Kenny, famed Australian nurse who gave up romance and riches in order to devote her life to helping victims of infantile paralysis, has one ambition above all others, she confided to Bing Crosby recently.

Bing, who undertook the national chairmanship of the drive now going on to raise $5,000,000 to aid Sister Kenny in her work, was complimenting her on the wonderful results of her method of treating the disease.

"Whatever I have accomplished," she said, "is due entirely to the sympathy and financial help of the American people. It is my hope that I live to see the day when I shall be able, through those who believe in me, to set up clinics in every part of the country. This is my greatest ambition."

The current campaign to raise $5,000,000 is progressing favorably all through the country. Half the fund will go to enlarging the Kenny Institute at Minneapolis and for training doctors and nurses. The other half will go toward establishing local clinics.

Contributions toward the Massachusetts quota of $200,000 should be sent to the Sister Kenny Foundation, care of Bert McKenzie, 46 Church st., Boston.

Myles Standish Camp May Be State Hospital

Massachusetts soon may take over Camp Myles Standish in Taunton to house 4500 mentally deficient, it was disclosed by Gov. Tobin today.

The announcement was made on a War Department declaration the camp, which served during the war as an embarkation center and afterward as a deployment area, now was surplus government property.

The governor said Dr. Clifton T. Perkins, state commissioner of health, had been inspecting camp buildings for several weeks and found the site suitable to care for thousands of persons, most of them children, who now are on waiting lists for admittance to overcrowded state institutions.

Court Frees 10 In M. I. T. Stunt

Ten M. I. T. students got off with a lecture and an order to make restitution today when arraigned in Dedham District Court on a charge of stealing Christmas trees—part of an initiation stunt demanded by their older fraternity brothers.

Wellesley police testified the youths cut down two valuable blue spruce at the estate of Miss Ethel Richardson, Worcester st., Wellesley, and then stole eight more at a roadside stand.

Judge Gilbert W. Cox said he did not wish to bring disgrace on such a great institution as M. I. T. and, in dismissing the charges, told the youths to pay for the damage.

Patton

career. While he has been a controversial figure, the rank and file of American forces always have had greatest respect for him as a fighting man and an officer.

"Patton seems destined by fate to have things happen to him in spectacular fashion," one officer said. "When he makes news it is seldom trivial."

The colorful former Third Army commander also sustained a simple fracture of the third cervical vertebra between the neck and shoulders, the announcement said. He was quite comfortable and completely rational following a restful night.

The announcement said Mrs Patton, flying from Washington to his bedside in Heidelberg Army Hospital, would arrive in Paris at 1 a. m. tomorrow and continue her journey to Heidelberg by rail or plane.

Dislocation of a vertebra just below the fracture was reduced today, the bulletin said. Patton remained "neurogically unchanged," with "prognosis guarded."

At Mrs. Patton's request, the announcement added Dr. Hugh Cairns, Oxford University neurosurgeon, was flown from England, arriving in Heildeberg this morning.

"Mrs. Patton will be accompanied by Col. Glen Spurling, Louisville, Ky., surgeon, and Lt. Kerwin of the War Department operations division," the bulletin said, adding:

"Patton's condition Dec. 9 was diagnosed as a simple fracture of the third cervical vertebra, with a posterior dislocation of the fourth cervical. Prognosis guarded.

"He spent a restful night, sleeping five hours. He is quite comfortable."

(At Massachusetts General Hospital it was explained to the Boston Evening American today that Gen. Patton's injuries, in nontechnical language, consist of a broken neck.)

It was confirmed today that Maj. Gen. Hobart R. Gay, Patton's chief of staff, was uninjured in the accident. Gay was riding in the front seat, while Patton sat in the back with his hunting dog, Willie.

The two generals were on their way to shoot pheasants when, according to somewhat conflicting reports, a two-and-one-half ton Army truck crashed into the big sedan at an intersection near the Mannheeim city limits.

The Army newspaper Stars and Stripes said Patton's car was traveling about 35 miles an hour, and the truck approximately half that speed.

Neither T-S Robert L. Thompson, driver of the truck, nor Patton's chauffeur, Pvt. Horace L. Woodring, was considered at fault, it was reported. Neither was injure, although the sedan was badly damaged.

Barnes Spikes PAC Offer of $100,000

Atty. Gen. Barnes today agreed with Joseph Salerno, Massachusetts president of CIO, he never had received a $100,000 offer to drop activity n behalf of the referendum petitions calling for the Barnes bills.

Salerno asked the attorney general to stop a rumor Sidney Hillman had made the offer in behalf of PAC.

"I'll gladly deny it," Barnes said. "I've never even met Mr. Hillman."

Dorothy Kilgallen writes "Broadway" every day for the Boston American.

Final Installment Of Tax Due Jan. 15

The final installment of the 1945 estimated tax is due by Jan 15 at the Internal Revenue Office, Denis W. Delaney, collector, pointed out today.

The announcement affects those who expect to receive wages subject to the withholding tax in excess of $5000, plus $500 for every surtax exemption except the taxpayer's own; or income from other sources in excess of $100, provided the total income is expected to be $500 or more.

History Papers Being Graded

More than 10,000 pupils in 43 public and parochial high schools of Boston were awaiting today the results of their examination Friday in the Hearst Newspapers American History Awards.

Their examinations were being graded by a special board of examiners, appointed by Supt. Arthur Gould of the Boston public schools, and the Rev. William J. Daly, diocesan supervisor of parochial schools.

There were 129 papers submitted to the examining board, and the three ranking pupils will be eligible to compete in the local final test, to be held in Faneuil Hall a week from today. On the following day, the name of the winning pupil will be broadcast over station WMEX.

WAR LESSONS LEARNED

THE ASSIGNMENT of officers to key posts in the higher levels of the naval command whose principal qualifications and experience are in the field of naval aviation suggests that the United States Navy learned its lessons well in the recent war.

Secretary of the Navy Forrestal confirmed this important and welcome fact when he said that aviation is becoming "increasingly dominant" in the Navy.

The top airman of the Navy, Admiral John H. Towers, has been made commander of the Pacific fleet.

Another distinguished airman, Vice Admiral D. C. Ramsey, will be vice chief of naval operations.

Vice Admiral Marc A. Mitscher, whose superb conduct of naval air operations was a large factor in the Pacific victory, will command a fleet in the Atlantic.

From these assignments emerges definite proof that the fundamental emphasis in the American Navy hereafter is going to be on AIR POWER.

This being true, the nation can be very sure that it is going to have a STRONG Navy, adequate for the successful defense of the nation in all future situations—and a powerful instrument for keeping the nation OUT of future wars.

THE NATION can only regret that the Navy's emphasis on air power did not come sooner.

Properly emphasized, it would have been available in decisive strength at the BEGINNING of the Pacific War, and would have vastly changed the early history of the war.

Properly emphasized BEFORE the war, it would in all probability have PREVENTED the war.

What we needed and lacked before the war, obviously, was naval leadership that KNEW the capacities and potentialities of aviation and BELIEVED in the efficacy and essentiality of air power.

It was our national tragedy, and very nearly the cause of a national disaster, that our prewar naval leadership was almost wholly bereft of either knowledge of aviation or faith in it.

That was the situation the Navy had to CORRECT in order to win the war.

Air power is INDISPENSABLE to a strong Navy.

The men who command the Navy at the top levels should surely KNOW the strategy and mechanics of aerial warfare, be personally experienced and COMPETENT in aviation and have a thorough and uncompromising FAITH in it.

The new assignments in naval command have accomplished much in this vital direction.

The lessons of the war taught their necessity and wisdom.

The Navy Department is to be commended for the current and impressive evidence that it has learned its war lessons so well.

NOT DECADENT

DR. CHESTER M. AITER, popular dean of Boston University Graduate School, vigorously denies that New England is decadent.

The dean concedes that the area is cluttered with old buildings, rotted piers, antiquated machine tools and bad housing.

But, says he, "New England lost only 5 per cent of the nation's man-hours through strikes, and provided 12 per cent of the country's war supplies. Also, the high concentration of educational and research institutions has brought forth the development of many new products and techniques."

In other words, SUPERIOR training overcomes the handicap of INFERIOR equipment.

If New Englanders could be persuaded to invest their money more liberally in New England, we would have up-to-date factories, thriving ports and new houses, and our bright sons and daughters would no longer be obliged to leave their home communities for good jobs and high wages.

THIS DEPARTMENT has long favored bands at racetracks. These bands should render tunes suitable for the immediate occasion. For example, when a longshot romps home and a price of $98.40 to $2 to win is posted the band should play "Pennies from Heaven." When Ted Atkinson, Eddie Arcaro or some other jockey rides his fourth winner of the afternoon the band should render "Little Man, You've Had a Busy Day." Then, of course, there should be a sympathetic rendition of the torch song of the turf, namely: "I'm Always Waiting for Horses That Never Come In."

SIGHT SEEING: When visiting a city that is new to me, about the first thing I do is to take a ride on a sight-seeing bus. There is no better way to familiarize yourself with a strange town. In New Orleans, the natives are proud of their cemeteries which are major sight-seeing stops. It is reported that at one of these burying grounds a visitor asked the guide what the four figures kneeling at the base of a tall marble shaft represented. Through his megaphone the guide said: "That monument was erected by Moriarty. The four figures represent Faith, Hope and Charity and Mrs. Moriarty."

NOTHING FACETIOUS: Our Horses & Women experts are not interested in criticism of the female sex they suspect to be facetious. Only constructive suggestions appeal to them. In this latter category is included some recently voiced criticism by a man of considerable experience, namely James Montgomery Flagg. Among other things, Mr. Flagg objects to women who wear coats without putting their arms in the sleeves. Also, to females who "dress provocatively and pretend to be insulted if it works." To women who grip cigarets in their mouths while strolling down main thoroughfares and those who wear mink coats on warm days.

QUERY FROM CLIENT—Q—Suppose you have just met a girl and figure nylon stockings, mules or a bed-jacket will be a good Christmas present for Her. How do you go about finding out the lady's size without asking her directly? A—Well, if she is a snappy looking number you can ask her to write down her measurements as you want to compare them to those of Venus or Hedy Lamarr. If she is on the plump side, and many lovable ladies are, your problem is a little more intricate. Ask one of her friends.

MANY unhappy marriages result because of the manner in which young women between the ages of 25 and 30 are harassed by members of their own sex. Becoming unbearably weary of being asked by other females why they haven't married, many young women in the aforementioned age group will accept the first man who proposes, whether they love him or not. Ruth Lyons, a spinster of 30, bitterly comments on this situation, as follows: "The bachelor is generally regarded with respect and even admiration as if he had done a very clever thing. The spinster is regarded as an object of pity, derision or contempt, someone who was not quite bright enough to reach out and grab herself a husband."

PLEASE NOTE: To young fellows starting in business for themselves I once more call attention to three books they might find helpful—"A Small Store and Independence" by Greenberg and Schindel; "Drug-store Management" by Nolen & Maynard; "What Makes People Buy" by Donald Laird.

OLD STORY: Add tales my grandfather told me: At a wedding in Glasgow the bridegroom had assumed a very sad expression and was nervously fidgeting from one foot to another. "What's the matter, Jock?" whispered the best man. "Have you lost the ring?" Jock answered in tragic tones: "No, the ring is safe enough. I've lost my enthusiasm."

"Oh, no, we're not puttin' up our decorations too early—they're still up from last year!"

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Copyright, 1945, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10—If I were confident that they are above such things, I might not suspect the hand of our amiable Communists in the propaganda to depict the American generals and admirals, so recently victorious in war, as a lot of stupid, bloated, unpatriotic bums who thoroughly enjoyed the outing in conditions of luxurious safety and have selfishly "delayed" demobilization to postpone the time when they must revert to lower rank.

Westbrook Pegler

By several respectable accounts, the demobilization has proceeded so fast that Gen. George Marshall called it "disintegration" and Admiral King said that, within a few months after V-J Day, the greatest naval fighting force in all history was no longer fit for battle.

Within so short a time, too, the man in uniform has become an unusual figure in New York and elsewhere, contrary to Gov. Tom Dewey's charge in the 1944 campaign that the Government was fixing to keep millions of men overtime in the service because there would not be jobs for them in civil life.

AS TO WHETHER Mr. Roosevelt would have done that, we do not know, for demobilization came in President Truman's time and the plan may have been abandoned in favor of no plan at all except to disperse the Army and Navy and turn men loose to look for jobs in strike-bound industries.

But certainly the wonderful Army that folded up the invincible agents of Der Fuehrer has ceased to exist as a fighting force.

History undoubtedly will decide that the American commanders, from General Eisenhower down to the buck-generals, did beat their share of the most formidable Army that the world had ever seen until it met its master in Africa, Italy and, finally, France and Germany.

IN ESTIMATING the achievements of the American generals, therefore, it is only fair to recall how pitifully raw and ill-armed the American forces were when these officers were called upon to organize, teach and equip them, and to bear in mind that they did smash Hitler's armies, who had all the initial advantage.

Except in Crete, where the Nazis set a lesson, and, on a small scale in Holland, no other nation ever had dropped fighting forces from planes and gliders as the Americans did in Sicily and France, and the American landings from the sea in force against shores which a mighty enemy had had plenty of time and manpower to fortify were something new in military history.

In strict truth, few Americans at home could even imagine the power, audacity and success of the Normandy invasion.

On results, then, the American generals and admirals who lately have been the subject of a scurrilous propaganda were the greatest leaders in the whole story of warfare.

ONE OF the objectives of the Communists among us is to arouse indiscipline, discontent and mutiny in our Army and Navy, which are best wrought by ridiculing the high officers and holding them up to contempt. This is done by cartoons, letters to the editors and inspired stories in newspapers.

The Communists, being zealots, heartily entered the American services after Hitler attacked Stalin and were careful to give no disciplinary trouble but diligent to plant themselves in key positions, particularly in headquarters jobs, and in the Army publications in which they could commit propaganda.

Their plan, as our high command realized, was to avoid being killed, avoid giving trouble at the time and dig themselves into influential jobs.

Now, as great champions of the enlisted people, they are clamoring for their removal from areas where Communism has designs and damning the commanders.

Are Eisenhower, Marshall, MacArthur, Spaatz, Patton, Hodges, Bradley, Devers, Nimitz, Halsey, Spruance and Mitscher self-indulgent old colonel blimps who always fought from safe positions far from battle and now determined to keep several million Americans in uniform merely that they may continue to wear stars?

And may it not be possible that these men are patriots who know more than we do and deeply believe that if the nation should ever age, be caught unready, the United States would cease to exist?

Hollywood Today

By Louella O. Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 10—Hear from a very reliable source that Gregory Peck is going to take his many contracts into court and try to get back into one piece of personality. He is divided more ways than Frankie Sinatra was before Frank had the court declare him a free agent. But Greg's case is not a fight over money nor is he being temperamental about his very quick rise to fame. Since he hit town a couple years ago he hasn't had a free day, and no say as to where and why he is loaned to other studios.

Gregory Peck

It was the Casey Robinson-Ben Bogeaus deal that is said to have brought Greg to this decision. Casey recently arranged with Borgeaus to star Peck in Ernest Hemingway's "The Short and Happy Life of Francis Macomber" and "The Life of Pavlowa."

TALKED WITH Don Ameche about the new professional football club called the American Football Association he is forming. He tells me it is getting under way with such stockholders as L. P. Mayer, Bob Hope, Bing Crosby, Pat O'Brien and other sports loving gents. Don is president and no other officers have been elected, although I hear L. B. Mayer is the choice for vice-president. There is a lot of interest everywhere in pro football and a lot of money has been made.

WHY DOESN'T my daughter tell me these things? Fine thing that I have to learn from three different people that Harriet Parsons has bought an original from Dick Irving Hyland titled "Memory of Love." How does she think I manage to eke out an honest living if I don't get the news first? Among other things I managed to pick up about this deal is it is a very poignant story about a blind boy and that it is the sixth original Hyland has sold this year after leaving the Warner praisery. Now, Miss Parsons, Jr., how about giving me the star and the rest of the cast? I know De Witt Bodeen is doing the screen play.

GRACIE FIELDS, who may never be as popular in England as she was when she came here five years ago, goes back to visit there the end of the month. It will be her first visit since she arrived in America and despite her huge donations and many excellent war efforts, the British will find it difficult to forget she wasn't with them during the difficult days of the blitz. At the time she came here she was Britain's most popular actress and she'll have to work hard to win back her former place in the hearts of the Britishers who always find it hard to forget.

BROTHER! If the major company dickering for Matty Malneck's book based on his 10 years with Paul Whiteman's band, gets it, here are the personalities they'll deal with: Bing Crosby, Hoagey Carmichael, Tommy and Jimmy Dorsey, John Mercer, Henry Busse, Mildred Bailey, Bix Baederbecke, Ferde Grofe and Paul himself. You can't top those names in popular musical circles and I don't see how Matty's book can miss as a movie. All these artists were with Whiteman in those lush years between 1926 and 1936.

SUPPOSE BY the time you read this Orson Welles will have arrived in Hollywood. He left New York, but what plane he took or where he went was a secret for a couple of days. Rita Hayworth has heard not a word from him since my "exclusive" on their separation, but that hasn't kept her from going ahead with the separation papers which now await his signature. It's all over between them, and in all the years I've been covering the Hollywood scene I've never heard of a more popular parting. During the time she was married to Welles, Rita completely submerged her personality to his. Now I look to see her back where she was when "Cover Girl" made her the toast of the movies and before the "genius" in the family usurped the spotlight.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD COLLECTED AT RANDOM: Sylvia Fairbanks Stanley arrives here to spend Christmas with her sister, Mrs. Vera Bleck Whaley. Sylvia and Lord Stanley are divorced to one knows, but the rumor is strong she will wed Robert Sweeney, once Barbara Hutton's boy friend; Beatrice Granville and Lucky Humberstone really care—wait and see; Lisette Verea, the Rumanian beauty, is on her way to New York to meet her very, very wealthy suitor. He has the apartment, the ring and before Christmas she'll be his bride; Louis Bromfield arrives here with his sidekick, George Hawkins. You can bet Bogey and Baby are happy. They were married at the Bromfield farm. By the way, Bogey's birthday is Christmas, so is Joe Schenck's.

HELMUT DANTINE'S first date since he and Ida Lupino parted, was with Jeanne Crain; Jack Dempsey plans into town Tuesday and he'll discuss an offer to play himself in "Joe Palooka, Champ" for Monogram; Natalie Thompson has been stepping out in New York, not only with Orson Welles, but with William Paley as well; Pat Patterson is in a hospital for a nose operation; Virginia Zanuck is the happiest gal in Hollywood, and so is her mother, Mrs. Marie Fox. They just got word from Maj. Freddie Fox, their brother and son, that he's in this country. He's been overseas three years. Col. Tom Lewis, who did such a swell job during the war, rejoins Young and Rubicam as vice-president and member of the executive committee. He'll have his headquarters in Hollywood, which will make his bride, Loretta Young, very happy. That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Broadway

By Dorothy Kilgallen

NEW YORK, Dec. 10—Broadway is not exactly a chameleon street. It changes reluctantly, in war or in peace. It zings on its giddy, gay way ever so blithely and the French might have had Electric Light Lane in mind when they quipped that the more things change the more they are the same.

Maurice Evans

We read about and note reconversion everywhere. Not Broadway?

Yes, Broadway. In multitudinous small ways the show world is adjusting itself to the swift routine of peace. Just take a look.

Discharge buttons—the "ruptured duck"—are as common as uniforms used to be . . . The vets leave behind the regular laid-on-the-line government pay for the unrealiable income of the Equity member . . . A "GI Hamlet" comes up with a cast of veterans led by Maurice Evans, and the same can be said of the forthcoming musical, "Call Me Mister," by Harold Rome, a former corporal . . . Variety, which used to print a list of show world draftees, now features a column, "New Civilians" . . . And whatever happened to the 28-cent admission price for servicemen at the movies?

Newspaper space goes to the gentleman about to marry his eighth wife and to orchidaceous Peggy Hopkins Joyce nervously cooing "I do" to her fifth bridegroom . . . The Army discharges a singer, Johnny Desmond, who was called "The G I. Sinatra" when he was over there . . . The screen welcomes back its old heroes—Gable, Jimmy Stewart and Bob Taylor.

You hear songs like "My Guy's Come Back" and "Welcome Home" . . . There are fewer MPs around Times Square. Fewer SP's, too. Fewer salutes . . . War plays, pictures and books are on the wane—and none too soon . . . The Met stages a big, bejeweled premiere again—and many a dressy night follows the opening . . . Chinchilla cloaks are demothed and Broadway again becomes a tuxedo junction . . . You buy bonds for a new reason—peace.

WAR CORRESPONDENTS are back in their old slots at offices far from foxholes . . . Gov. Dewey inspects service installations to solve the vet housing problems . . . Butchers smile and cab drivers are ever so slightly less elusive . . . Broadway restaurants like Lindy's and the Metropole and the Aquarium put their standing room customers out on the sidewalk . . . Construction gets under way and the Rockefellers begin to de-swing 52d st. . . . The pigeons recapture Duffy Square from the soldiers and sailors . . . Canteens shutter . . . Night clubbers touch on foreign policy and the unification of the services, but mostly they chatter of the next World's Fair, the next Olympics, and Joe DiMaggio back with the Yankees . . . Hollywood, with material easier to find, has decided to send Don Ameche back to inventing things . . . And people you don't care to hear from particularly are calling up to break in their new telephones.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10—I hope, pray and trust, as Dan Parker, the old redundancy-fancier, always says, that President Truman appreciates his many blessings. Philip Murray is not speaking to him.

In a land full of special-pleaders who wish to assail his eardrums, what could be more comforting to the President than to know he will not have to listen to the CIO head any longer?

Now that he has found the formula for relief from Murray gas, Mr. Truman ought to patent it under the pure feud and drug laws and put it on the market. It should become more popular than bicarbonate of soda.

The mystifying thing is why Mr. Truman hesitated so long. He ought to know, from past performances, that these union heads are largely "full of sound and fury, signifying nothing."

Because they have snatched the machinery of power within their own organizations these leaders are able to force paralyzing strikes. But they don't control the political thinking of their followers. When it comes election time, most of the workers make up their minds for themselves.

Doesn't the President recall what happened in 1940 when John L. Lewis bolted the New Deal? If anything was needed to cinch the election for FDR that was it.

SOME WEEKS BACK, I wrote that maybe a good solution would be for every plant in the country to close down for three months, during which all race tracks, gambling houses, and clip joints would operate full blast. By the end of the period all the hot cash would be drained off and people would be glad to go back to work.

But I have thought of an even better plan. The various strike-bound industries should serve this ultimatum upon labor leaders:

"If you send your members back to work immediately we will agree to a 10 per cent raise in wages. This would be fair and equitable—also it would enable you to save face because you would have something to show for your efforts.

"But this offer will hold good for only one week. At the end of that time the increase offer will be withdrawn.

"However, if you delay two weeks, the shoe automatically goes on the other foot. We will reduce wages 10 per cent. And if you hold out for more than a month longer the reduction will be 20 per cent!"

OPA IS ALWAYS discovering the darndest things on which it feels price ceilings should either be imposed or removed. For instance, it recently decided that processed angleworms should be exempted from price control.

That was all right with me, because I never liked the idea of controlling a processed angleworm. But I can't make up my mind about this latest announcement:

"An increase of $15 per thousand has been allowed in producers' maximum prices for Circle Sawn White Oak Bourbon grade export whisky barrel staves."

It might make a wonderful radio commercial at that. Can't you just hear the announcer gushing:

"And now, housewives, for only $15 more you can make the children deliriously happy by treating them to a thousand Circle Sawn White Oak Bourbon grade export whisky barrel staves. Don't forget there are only 15 more Circle Sawn White Oak Bourbon grade export whisky barrel staves 'til Christmas!"

AS EXPERT for the Office of Defense Transportation, Mr. Charles Prins spent his working hours trying to think up schemes for discouraging railroad travel. He thought up quite a few, including a poster which was supposed to depict the head of a family having a wonderful vacation at home with a pitcher of lemonade, but which some vandal loused up by substituting a bottle of whisky.

However, Mr. Prins quit ODT—and what do you suppose he is doing now? Drumbeating for a railroad sleeper in which he extols the beauties and comforts of travel!

After sending out much high-powered publicity on his sleeper, Mr. Prins wished to know how he was doing, so he subscribed to a newspaper clipping service. This service cuts out all pieces relating to the client's business and provides the clippings at a nickel a throw.

For the first two weeks Mr. Prins received only a meagre dribble of clippings but the third week a huge stack arrived. He read them and almost went berserk. It seems the literal-minded clippers had cut out everything about a horse named "Sloppy Joe" which had upset the dope by romping in first at Charles Town.

Sportswriters had referred to the nag as a "sleeper."

The Brighter Side

(Reg. U. S. Patent Office)

By Damon Runyon

During George Holland's vacation, the Boston Evening American presents a daily article by Damon Runyon, famous short-story writer and novelist.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10—"Do you know Hammerstraw?" asked the man. I said yes. I said I knew Hammerstraw very well. "He is an old friend of mine," I said. "How long have you known him?" I said about 20 years.

But after the man had gone his way and I got to thinking about the matter I realized I had been guilty of a misstatement. Perhaps two misstatements.

I do not know Hammerstraw. It is true I have been acquainted with him for at least 20 years. I see him every week or so and I always give him one of my choicest hellos, and pause and talk with him awhile about his business and my business and his family and my family and his health and my health.

He always says he never saw me looking better and I say I have never seen him looking better, though both of us are liars by the clock because it is just not in the cards that men keep looking better against the passing of the years.

As for Hammerstraw being an old friend of mine, that is just a figure of speech. I could not pick up the telephone and call Hammerstraw and ask him for money, which is the acid test of friendship, and I am not sure I could get any other favor from him; and if you cannot go to sleep on the proposition that a fellow will do you a favor, he is not a friend. I am just a little over-glib with that "old friend" business.

BUT AS I SAY, I do not know Hammerstraw.

I do not really know hundreds and hundreds of other men that I would probably claim to know very well if you asked. I am acquainted with them, that is all.

I know how they look and what they do in a business or professional sense, and where they live but beyond outward appearances I do not know them at all. I do not know what goes on behind their fronts or what is in their minds and hearts. I may know that they go to church and plump down on their marrow bones but I do not know if they pray or if they believe in God.

I do not know their thoughts. They may be contemplating robbing a partner, or stealing a neighbor's wife.

IT SEEMS to me that if you know a person very well, you must sense in their presence to some extent their innermost thoughts and feelings; that if you know them as you know your wife, let us say, there must be a certain telepathy between you. But, of course, many men do not know their wives even though they may have been married for years. They are just acquainted with them.

Now you take the case of an acquaintance of mine who was married 19 years, two weeks, three and a half days, and two hours and thirty seconds to a most estimable lady and who boasted that he knew her better than she knew herself and that he could tell in advance what she would say and how she would act in any situation under any circumstances. He said he knew her better than he knew the back of his hand. He said he knew her better than the wart on his chin.

"Boy, I really know my wife!" he said.

HE NEVER DID say how well she knew him, but anyway he got mixed up with another woman and was holding clandestine meetings with her here and there and around and about, and one of these meetings one day was in the cocktail lounge of a certain hotel.

Well, as these two illicit love birds were quitting the gaff after a whole afternoon of lounging, something fell from a third-story window of the hotel above the cocktail lounge and struck my acquaintance on top of the head and knocked him cuckoo, and it was subsequently disclosed as a flower vase weighing about nine pounds which had been dropped with unerring aim by his wife. What is more, the vase contained some lovely red roses.

I SAW HIM after his recovery from a fractured skull and I said I guessed he would quit bragging about knowing his wife because obviously if he had known her as well as he claimed, he would have known she would drop a load of flowers on his bean if she caught him out with another dame, and he would have refrained from that practice.

"Oh, I knew she would drop a vase on me under those circumstance," he said, "but what I did not know was that she would use one with red roses in it. I know my wife better than I know the scar she left on my noggin. I know my wife better than I know the size of my bank account. I know my wife very well, indeed."

Vets' Friend

By JAMES F. McENANEY

Q—I would like to know if you have any information concerning the departure of the 12th Armd. Div. of the Seventh Army from Germany? I. F., Lawrence.

A—This department does not have information relative to the return of units from overseas. We suggest you watch for shipment notices in the newspapers.

Q—Will you please tell me if it is possible for my husband to re-enlist in the Army if he is now in the service? He was in the Army during peace time about 18 years ago and was drafted last April. We have three children and he will be 36 in January. H. P., New Bedford.

A—Your husband may re-enlist in the Army provided he has had a total of one year or more of active service at any time, by applying for discharge from his enlisted status for the purpose of re-enlisting in the regular Army.

Q—Are many soldiers returning with amnesia? How are they cared for? P. S., Beverly.

A—No soldier who might have developed amnesia would be released by an Army hospital until he had recovered. When a serviceman develops a mental condition, he receives the most careful attention possible. If he is discharged from military service before complete recovery, he is placed in a Veterans' Administration hospital where he is given special care. Mental patients in Army hospitals may receive visitors. There are few amnesia cases.

Q—My brother has been out of the service for two years and two months. Is it too late for him to get a GI loan. A. W., Portland.

A—Your brother may apply for a loan guaranty under the GI Bill of Rights until two years after the termination of the war. This is not a loan but a guaranty on a loan up to one-half of an amount which does not exceed $4000 or a guarantee of $2000 on a loan of a larger amount than $4000.

Q—I was discharged in May of this year after three years' active service. I have a disability incurred in the service but am not receiving a pension. Am I entitled to any educational benefits as a veteran? I am now 25 years of age. R. E., Providence.

A—Yes, you are entitled to as many months of school as you spent in service plus one year, if you were discharged under conditions other than dishonorable. This is one of the benefits open to veterans under the GI Bill of Rights. Such educational benefits shall not exceed four years. It is possible that you are eligible for vocational rehabilitation if you have a pensionable disability even though you did not claim a pension. It would be wise to check with a Veterans' Administration office.

Q—My husband was discharged from the Army in October of this year. He took out $5000 in National Service Life Insurance when he enlisted in 1943. Will it be necessary for him to convert it to a life policy right away? Can he convert it to a commercial policy? C. F., Concord.

A—Since your husband took his policy before Dec. 31 of this year, he may continue it as a term policy for eight years from the date it was issued before converting it to a life policy. National Service Life Insurance cannot be converted to commercial insurance but may be converted to 20-pay, 30-pay, or ordinary life insurance by applying to the Veterans' Administration.

CONTAGIOUS COLDS NOW SPREADING!

Fewer colds!...Shorter colds! 50% less sickness from colds! ...that's the certified record of Vicks Plan in a great medically-supervised winter test among 2650 children. Right in your own home, this easy guide may do less—or it may even do more for you and your family. But with colds on a rampage, this tested plan is certainly worth trying today! Full details in your package of Vicks. Briefly here's what you do:

Put VICKS PLAN To Work Today!

OBSERVE a few simple health rules. Live normally. Avoid excesses. Eat simple food. Drink plenty of water. Keep elimination regular. Get plenty of rest and sleep. Avoid crowds and people who have colds.

IF A COLD THREATENS, put a few drops of clinic-tested Vicks Va-tro-nol up each nostril at first sniffle or sneeze. (Use as directed in package.) This effective, specialized medication is expressly designed to aid your natural defense against colds—and if used in time, Va-tro-nol helps prevent many colds from developing. (Even when your head is all stuffed up from a mean head cold, Vicks Va-tro-nol relieves sniffly, sneezy distress, makes breathing easier.)

WHEN A COLD STRIKES, or slips by all precautions, rub clinic-tested Vicks VapoRub on back, as well as on throat and chest at bedtime. VapoRub penetrates to the cold-congested upper bronchial tubes with soothing medicinal vapors. It stimulates throat, chest, and back surfaces like a warming poultice. This penetrating-stimulating action works for hours to relieve miseries of colds ... invites restful, comforting sleep!

NOTE: If the miserable symptoms of the cold are not relieved promptly—or if more serious trouble seems to threaten—call in your family doctor right away.

Annual Greens Sale

By BETTY ALDEN

IT WILL SOON be time to deck the house with holly and mistletoe and to provide unusual materials for decorations, the New England Farm and Garden Ass'n is holding its annual Christmas Greens Sale next Thursday and Friday in Horticultural Hall.

The fragrance of spicy pine and balsam will pervade the hall as Mrs. John H. Cunningham and her large group of artistic helpers fashion swags, wreaths and table decorations ornamented with glossy red berries, Christmas gold and shiny magnolias. The country women who send the greens depend on proceeds of this sale to make a merry Christmas for their own families.

Dorothy Rackemann

Assisting Mrs. Cunningham in the making of wreaths are Mrs. Stephen B. Ames, Mrs. Henry Archambault, Mrs. Colin Cunningham, Mrs. Hamilton Edwards, Mrs. Frederick Atwood, Mrs. Clinton Brown, Mrs. Phillips Davis, Mrs. Arthur Frost, Mrs. Leo Bakey, Mrs. Cyrus Corliss, Mrs. Borden Cowel, Mrs. Leon E. Now—never a care about my hair—
says Romo Vincent

"HONESTLY, you'd think that a man with a thick, healthy-looking head of hair like mine would never worry about it at all! Well, I used to worry—and plenty—until I took Thomas treatment. Now my hair looks better, and my scalp feels as soft and healthy as a baby's," says Romo Vincent, stage and screen star.

What are you doing to give your hair the kind of attention and care that it needs? Why not follow Mr. Vincent's example—consult a Thomas expert. He'll show you exactly how this 24-year proved treatment removes dandruff flakes and scales, relieves itch which they may cause, and leaves your scalp tingling with a fresh, new, healthy feeling. Come in today for free, private consultation and see for yourself how this reliable method works.

O. D. T. TAKES 70% OF AIRLINE SEATS TO EAST

RETURNING PACIFIC VETERANS TO USE SPACE

The Office of Defense Transportation has issued an emergency order, effective December 3rd, applying to 10 airlines, including all transcontinentals. Briefly it is this: *70% of the transcontinental space allocated for passenger traffic on scheduled commercial passenger flights eastbound shall be made available daily to men of our armed services arriving at key ports of entry on the Pacific Coast.

Thousands of Pacific veterans must be brought home. And United Air Lines is glad to help. But this means sweeping changes in our customary service.

1. This Is How the Order Affects United Air Lines:

Since the lifting of priorities, our ticket office and reservations personnel have been faced with an almost impossible task handling calls for reservations. Though we've employed more and more people, and installed all available telephone equipment, we have been swamped with calls and requests for space.

We have been instructed by the O.D.T. to cancel such reservations as necessary to comply with this order, and no more reservations on east-bound transcontinental flights can be accepted until further notice.

2. This Is How the Order Affects You:

In view of the lack of eastbound space, and to save you time in calling for information, United lists below answers to the questions that have been constantly asked over the phone regarding this new travel situation.

Q. Just what flights does this government order affect?

A. 70% of all space on all eastbound coast-to-coast flights will be set aside for service men arriving at West Coast points from the Pacific, and who are bound for eastern destinations. In addition to the seasonal increase of air mail, the situation is made even more critical by the huge loads steadily coming in from the Pacific theater. Thus, in view of the lack of space on United Mainliners, temporarily, we cannot accept reservations for eastbound transcontinental flights.

NOTE: On flights from Chicago to the East however, the amount of space required for the movement of returning service men will be materially less, and therefore some space will be available on eastbound schedules from Chicago to Cleveland, New York and other eastern cities by advance reservation.

Q. What about westbound space?

A. This order does not affect westbound space and civilians can make advance reservations as usual. But remember, the chances of getting a return reservation are very remote. Don't forget that the railroads, too, are devoting the major part of their eastbound Pullman space to this urgent situation.

Q. How will returning service men be allotted space?

A. The 70% space on all eastbound flights will be turned over directly to the military transportation office. And the assignment of space will be handled by that office only.

Q. Why don't you put more planes in service?

A. Every United Mainliner is operating at capacity and peak efficiency right now, although we have more than doubled our fleet since Pearl Harbor. And also 4-engine 44-passenger-cargo C-54 type planes are being readied for service. Still larger, 52-passenger, 300-mile-per-hour, DC-6 Mainliners will be placed in service along the Main Line Airway as fast as they become available.

Q. How long will the situation last?

A. The emergency is only temporary. We feel that the Office of Defense Transportation will lift restrictions as soon as the emergency is over. United will inform you as soon as any change is in prospect.

UNITED AIR LINES

United Air Lines has been presented an Award of Honor by the National Safety Council for having flown more than a billion passenger miles in the past three years without a fatal accident. We are proud of our flight personnel and ground employees who made this record possible.

pays physicians' bills for surgery and maternity care in hospitals

Over 200,000 already enrolled in Massachusetts . . . thousands joining every week

Read how this non-profit plan—endorsed by your physician—saves you money when illness strikes

THE BLUE SHIELD SURGICAL PLAN protects you and your family against the cost of physicians' bills for operations and maternity care in the same manner Blue Cross pays hospital bills.

Sponsored by your family physician and the Massachusetts Medical Society, Blue Shield is a low-cost, non-profit, voluntary plan to enable you to provide in advance for costly surgical care.

Blue Shield is in its fourth successful year in Massachusetts—20,000 now are joining monthly.

Two out of every three hospital patients are admitted for operations or maternity care. Blue Shield spreads the risk over a large number of people—and through the magic of averages pays surgical fees few families could readily meet without hardship.

Over 4,000
Participating Physicians

You retain your valuable right to choose your own surgeon, physician or obstetrician if he is one of 4,000 now participating in the Plan. Without red tape or worry, Blue Shield pays your physician promptly.

If married, and your family income is less than $2500 a year ($2000 for a single person), your surgeon has agreed to accept the fixed Blue Shield fee as payment in full for the operation. Thus, for only a few cents a day, people in this income group may receive the finest surgical service without worry about the cost.

If your income is more than the above amounts, Blue Shield pays its established fees toward the bill—you pay the balance, if any. Allowances are also made for X-ray and anesthesia.

Could you pay a large surgical bill tomorrow—without serious financial inconvenience?

HOW YOU JOIN

For the present, Blue Shield membership is available only to groups of employees where five or more persons are employed.

If a Blue Shield group exists where you are employed, mail the coupon and speak to the person in your company handling the group to find out when additions can be accepted.

If you work in a firm where there are five or more employees—and no group exists—you can join provided an adequate percentage of your fellow employees join with you. Make your wishes known to your employer and send in the coupon.

2 out of 3 hospital patients require surgical or maternity care . . .

ARE YOU PROTECTED?

Blue Shield

A valuable addition to your Blue Cross Hospital protection

Blue Shield is operated jointly with the non-profit Blue Cross Hospital Plan. Thousands of Massachusetts employers are making this double protection available to their employees. We shall be glad to furnish full information to your employer.

Some Famous Essentials for Glamor

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE, Beauty and Fashion Editor

ARE YOU READY for the winter season? Already it is a big one . . . and getting bigger all the time. Parties, theater and opera presage glamorous, glittering evenings, with soft, feminine evening gowns . . . and beauty.

During the war years, we've been directing beauty principles to offset the ravages of your war work, victory gardening, household chores . . . the etched record in your face of a daily existence fraught with worry and concern for loved ones. We've constantly exhorted you to care for your beauty . . . keep it nurtured, young and lovely.

If you have followed our advice . . . your problem now will not be too serious. But, if you have not, then now is the time to consider yourself.

And we're certain a group of famous-name essentials will prove invaluable to you. Morning and night, cleanse your skin with her fluffy cleansing cream and skin lotion. If your skin is dry from too much exposure . . . every night before retiring smooth on a special cream containing the pure juice of oranges to give your skin softness and lend lubrication to it. And it is a pretty safe bet that your skin is dry.

A treatment with an unusual moisture cream once or twice a week will bring gratifying results. You can just feel your skin circulation being stimulated. And, it's so simple. Just smooth a little of this remarkable preparation on . . . leave on for 20 minutes or so while you relax . . . and remove with tissues.

And then, of course, a cream mask . . . left on for 20 minutes . . . will do wonders for ironing out little lines of fatigue . . . dispelling any puffiness under the eyes . . . and giving your skin a smooth velvety appearance. Smooth this cream on and allow it to dry . . . lie down and don't move a single facial muscle. Then remove with warm water and absorbent cotton . . . and notice the new freshness and clarity of your skin.

WRITE FOR REDUCING EXERCISES

You look at a beautiful woman, you admire her and perhaps envy her. But do you realize that she cares for the loveliness of her face like you do for that new and precious fur coat? Some of us are born to look pretty . . . but unless we work at preserving it . . . it fades and withers as do all things neglected.

Your figure troubles are more personal and cannot be fully explained here. But if you write me, telling your measurements . . . where you want to lose weight . . . we'll have this noted beauty authority send you from her New York salon a booklet with the proper exercise for you.

For the name of these facial renovation cosmetics, phone the Beauty Dept., LIBerty 4000, or write me, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

"DID YOU ever see a dream walking? Well, I did" . . . for a long time now, they've been saying it is Lana Turner, that curvaceous maedchen who shines brilliantly in the MGM firmament. Not all of us can be as gorgeous of face and figure as she is . . . but we can do our best in making the best of what we have . . . lending Mother Nature a helping hand with purposeful cosmetics.

Try Turkey Cut-Ups

By MARTHA LEE
Household Editor

MANY HOMEMAKERS do not limit the serving of turkey to holiday meals alone. There's no reason why they should when it is plentiful and it is always sure of a grand welcome at the dinner table.

Of course, if it were necessary to buy a whole turkey every time she wanted to serve this delectable bird, many a homemaker would be obliged to forsake the idea. Most of the turkeys today are so large that they are suitable only for large families or other groups.

This is why half turkeys have become so poplar. Dealers this year, too, are cutting up some of the heavy toms and selling turkey breasts, legs and other pieces to consumers who may not want the whole large bird.

PREPARING TURKEY CUT-UPS

To aid homemakers unfamiliar with preparing cut-up pieces of large turkeys, the U. S. Department of Agriculture has undertaken some cookery tests—using one of the fine large types of turkey—the heavy Broad Breasted Bronze tom. They offer the following suggestions:

Before cooking, have the bone removed from breasts, wings, legs or thighs. This will detract a little from the flavor, but turkey bones are large and awkward to handle. If possible, have the tendons drawn out of legs before cooking. Inspect backs carefully on the inside, and take out any traces of lungs or other organs that may not have been completely removed.

TURKEY STEAKS

Steaks cut from ½ to 1 inch thick from the breast of a large young turkey can be cooked on top of stove. Before cooking, season with salt and pepper, and roll in flour or dip in egg and crumbs. Brown in about ½ inch fat, cover, and steam until tender. Or brown in about ¼ inch fat, then add 1 or 2 tbsp. of water, before covering and steaming. Cooking will probably take about 30 to 45 minutes, depending on the thickness of the steaks. Drain on absorbent paper and serve with cream gravy.

WINGS, LEGS AND THIGHS

Wings, legs, and thighs may also be cut into serving-sized pieces for cooking on top of the stove, though the meat is not thick enough to allow cutting across the grain. Bread the pieces as for breast steaks, and brown in sufficient fat to make a solid crust. Add 1 or 2 tbsp. of water, cover closely, and steak until done. These pieces require a little more time for cooking than the breast pieces.

FOR ROLLED ROAST

Meat from the wing, thigh, or leg of a turkey is also suitable for a rolled roast, if there is enough skin for the roast to have a skin surface. If skin is insufficient, do not attempt to roast, because the meat on the surface will dry out. To roast, first salt on the fleshy side. Then roll the meat up with stuffing inside, and sew firmly. If the family likes more stuffing than the meat will cover, extra stuffing can be baked in a casserole. Brush the skin with fat, and place the rolled meat solid side up on a rack in a pan in the oven. Greased cheesecloth put on top of the roast gives added protection. Do not add water, and do not cover. Roast at a very moderate temperature—about 300 deg. F.—baste with drippings or other fat if the surface appears to crisp too much. Cooking time will probably be about 3 to 4½ hours, depending on size of piece roasted. Test for doneness by sticking with a fork.

OTHER TURKEY PARTS

Backs, necks, and giblets are suitable for steaming or stewing. Stewing takes less time, but sacrifices more of the flavor of the meat. To steam, place on a rack in a pan with a little water in the bottom, partly cover, and cook for several hours until tender. To stew, place turkey pieces on rack, half fill the kettle with lightly salted water, partly cover, and simmer—do not boil—until the bird is tender. Add celery leaves and onion to the stewing water for extra taste appeal. Stewed or steamed meat can be chopped to use in gravy, for hash or salad, or to serve with cream sauce. Or grind meat and use with seasonings for sandwich spread.

Fashion

EXOTIC, but not too! Bright colored challis . . . picked up with colored sequins . . . makes this dramatic and unusual turban prettily perched on NBC thespian Charlotte Manson. Birds of shining colored beads . . . red, blue, green . . . trim the turban, too. Mary Goodfellow designed it . . . and insists on the matching glove as part of the costume with the basic black dress. An alluring outfit, to say the least . . . or is it Charlotte? . . . R. M.

Answers Foreign Brides

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

A YOUNG war widow who lost her husband overseas and has been left with a little son two years of age asks to answer a foreign bride's letter which appeared in her local paper recently.

"Dear Miss Fairfax:

"Now that the war has been won it strikes me as strange that foreign girls have so little gratitude that God has spared them and their American husbands from disaster. Life goes on peacefully again. Yet they complain continually about little things they've left behind.

"Apparently these girls expected to be treated like royalty, they were so anxious to get here, and now they are 'beefing' about the luxuries they could not bring with them.

"You know that our boys were bewildered and really not responsible for their actions over there. We don't dislike the foreign girls; we're only sorry for their confusion, sorry from the bottom of our hearts that our boys had to die for them and their countries as well as our own country.

"My husband was killed in action and left my little two-year-old son fatherless. And I have to go on alone fighting things, foreign brides' letters among them. The majority of Uncle Sam's daughters feel the same as I do. The foreign girls who gripe about conditions here should remember that people who live in glass houses shouldn't throw stones.

"If we have another war in 20 years, as many of our returning G.I.s think, and my little son has to fight and he falls for a girl in a foreign country, I'll try to have his marriage annulled. For one thing I'm thankful that the English girl who had quadruplets by a married American soldier has not been allowed to bring her children over here.

"Do you think I'm bitter? I've had enough to make me bitter. I sometimes wonder if women won't have to fight out the next war—foreign and American women.

AMERICAN WAR WIDOW."

Special Thought

You should consider most carefully and thoughtfully the greeting or message expressed on the cards to be sent to those who are bereaved and in mourning, to those who are ill, to those whose hearts we know are bowed with some worry or anxiety, or to very old people. You may have to select individual ones that have an appropriate message. —MRS. BEECKMAN. Copyright, 1945, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Tradesmen May Send Cards

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN: My wife and I own a medium-sized grocery store, and since we both wait on our customers, we know most of them personally and have a friendly relationship with them. Would it, therefore, be proper for us to send Christmas cards to them? We don't want them to feel that we are commercial in our greetings.

BOB.

Yes, indeed it is proper for you and your wife to send friendly greetings to those customers whom you know personally. Since these people are already your customers, they would welcome your cordial greetings, and would not misinterpret your cards as "soliciting" customers or as commercializing the spirit of Christmas.

Bag Equipped With Radio

By BETTINA BEDWELL

THE wonders of invention are making fashion history day by day, and one of the newest style accessories to fall heir to the discoveries of science is the handbag.

Readied for Christmas are handbags equipped with tiny radios. Miss Dulin sketches one.

The Koret bag is black suede with a compartment at the bottom to house the radio, which is only three inches wide and a little more than six inches long, with less than an inch of thickness. It comes in a lot of different finishes to go with any sort of handbag, and to suit any taste. Sub-miniature tubes developed by Raytheon give this small radio clarity of rendition, the manufacturer says.

"Iwuz thinkin'...."

by Izzy Ort

Believe me folks, the old knob has been churnin' the past coupla days! I guess I'm a sentimentalist! I must be; didn't I jest stare for 20 minutes at a department store Sandy Claws the other day? But last week, I met a swell lad what was on the USS Boston. He'd jest got in from Tokyo and he wore 12 battle stars! At first, I t'ought he was an admiral but I don't think admirals wore that type of uniform. S 1c J. F. Hafford wuz this guy's name an' when he started talkin' all I could think about wuz Dec. 7 four years ago an' then I t'ought about a lotta boys I won't see no more, too. But, the world is improvin'; we don't live in caves no more! I wuz relaxin' in my El Tropico Room wid some friends, relaxin' ta the soothin' strains of Eddie Land's band an' watchin' Ethel Gordon hustle the customers in ta seats, an' I t'ought that the reason all these things is possible is becuz of fellers like Hafford. So, instedda goin' ta Hot Springs an' boilin' myself or hustlin' down ta Miami an' runnin' up an' down the beach in a sarong, I'm stickin' ta business becuz for the comin' season, the best fun an' entertainment in town is goin' ta be available at the El Tropico Room an' Ort's Grille, 25 Essex St., Advt.

'Frontier Girl' Heads New Memorial Bill

"Frontier Gal," starring Yvonne DeCarlo and Rod Cameron in Technicolor, will be featured on the Keith Memorial screen starting Tuesday.

In "Frontier Gal" Miss DeCarlo is seen as a feminine night club owner in a pioneer settlement. Cameron is the cowboy fugitive who becomes her unwilling husband and returns from a term in prison to find himself the father of her tiny daughter. Beverly Simmons, an attractive movie newcomer, appears as the child.

Not Even Singed

KOEHLER, N. M., Dec. 10 (AP)—Steve Smith, a carpenter in this coal mining community, opened his furnace to bank the fire for the night.

Out flew a sparrow, unharmed.

COPLEY — "MURDER WITHOUT CRIME," featuring Hollywood's John Carradine and Lilian Harvey, internationally known stage and screen star, in the English murder-melodrama by J. Lee Thompson, will be presented here by Theodore C. Ruskin. Tom Rutherfurd and Sonia Sorel are others in cast.

PLYMOUTH — "PYGMALION," revival of Shaw's comedy by Theater Incorporated with Gertrude Lawrence as Eliza Doolittle and Raymond Massey as Professer Higgins and importantly featuring Melville Cooper, Cecil Humphries, Katherine Emmet and Anita Bolster. Staged by Cedric Hardwicke. Richard Aldrich is managing director of Theater Incorporated.

WILBUR — "DUNNIGAN'S DAUGHTER," S. N. Behrman's new sophisticated comedy with a Mexican locale, stars Dennis King and June Havoc with Luther Adler. Elia Kazan staged The Theater Guild production.

Continuing

COLONIAL — "OKLAHOMA," The Theater Guild's fabulously successful production of the Rodgers-Hammerstein musical, terminates its sellout, eight-week engagement here on Saturday night. Curtains, 2:20, 8:20 p. m.

SHUBERT — "BILLION DOLLAR BABY," the new Betty Comden-Adolph Green-Morton Gould musical travesty with Joan McCracken and Mitzi Green, goes into its final week tonight.

December 18

SHUBERT — "NELLIE BLY," new 'round-the-world musical by Sig Herzig starring William Gaxton and Victor Moore and featuring MGM lovely Marilyn Maxwell and Broadway's very funny Benay Venuta, is presented by Nat Karson and Eddie Cantor. Lyrics are by Johnny Burke and the music by James Van Heusen, prize-winning team of "Going My Way" and "Swinging on a Star" fame. Carson is staging production. Edward Caton is in charge of choreography.

December 25

COLONIAL — "THE LATE GEORGE APLEY," the stage version by George S. Kaufman and John P. Marquand of Marquand's Boston novel, will return here after more than a year in New York with Leo G. Carroll, Janet Beecher, Percy Waram, Margaret Dale and the rest of the original cast.

OPERA HOUSE — "THE DESERT SONG," with the Metropolitan Opera's Walter Cassel and Dorothy Sandlin co-starred in the robustly melodious operetta, comes here direct from a sensational [illegible] engagement. The book and lyrics are by Frank Mandel, Oscar Hammerstein II and Otto Harbach, so none Bombers is responsible for the score's lyrics.

PLYMOUTH — "The VOICE OF THE TURTLE," John Van Druten's romantic comedy, in a return engagement with Louis Hoston and Harvey Stephens in the [illegible] created by Margalo Gillmore and Ralph Nugent for the Boston previewed Broadway production.

WILBUR — "BORN YESTERDAY," Garson Kanin's new comedy, returns Jean Arthur to the stage after some years absence in the starring role of the Max Gordon production.

December 31

COPLEY — "SONG OF BERNADETTE," a Frank McCoy production.

January 7

WILBUR — "YOU TWINKLE ONLY ONCE," a new play by Alen Kandel, starring Gladys George. Directed by Scott Meaner. Setting by Albert Johnson.

January 14

COLONIAL — "MEDEA," with Judith Anderson as the mythological sorceress, who murdered her own children to take vengeance on her husband, Jason of the Golden Fleece, means The Theater Guild is producing this adaptation of the Euripides classic.

SHUBERT — "LUTE SONG," Michael Meyerberg's production of the Will Irwin-Sidney Howard adaptation of the Chinese classic, will star Mary Martin.

January 21

WILBUR — "CRESCENDO," a psychological drama by Reginald Denham and Harriet Hoagle Wilson, stars Nancy Coleman and Ned Hamilton. Elizabeth Kramer is also in the cast. Peter Price is director.

10-1 Shot Beaten

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 10 (AP)—Eleven motorcycle policemen were lined up for roll-call when a roar was heard outside the garage.

Peering outside, they counted 10 motorcycles and saw the 11th racing down the street with a stranger aboard. Ten patrolmen mounted the remaining two-wheelers and gave chase.

At 5:20 p. m. the patrolmen had caught the offender who said he "just wanted to take a ride"—and roll call was resumed.

Loew's Units Buy $10,000,000 Bonds

Loew's Incorporated and its subsidiary companies, including Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, have subscribed to the sum to $10,000,000 in government securities during the current Victory Loan Drive.

Maurice Wolf, New England district head for MGM, and Charles E. Kurtzman, northeastern division manager for Loew's theaters, have been authorized to purchase $525,000 locally, the amount allocated here, which will be credited to the Suffolk County Victory Loan quota.

Bulge Coaches

CHICAGO, Dec. 10 (INS)—Coaches with a bulge to accommodate passengers with a bulge were put in service today by the Chicago, Aurora & Elgin Electric Railroad.

Recognizing passengers of wide beam are sometimes cramped, the management widened the coaches. The revision gives passengers an extra eight inches of space.

Two Little Words, or Democracy vs. Coercion

By AUSTEN LAKE

Austen Lake

WITH THE KIND PERMISSION of the Union of Automotive Workers today's sermon deals with the true, unexpurgated meaning of DEMOCACY, one little word which our statesmen, social theorists and deep-left unionists use as a screen for monopolistic greeds.

DEMOCRACY is the most used and abused noun in the national lexicon!

When Americans were told that we fought to save Demoracy against the barbarous assaults of Fascist autocracy, it whipped the nation into greater patriotic energies. It sounded fine! We went at it with both fists.

But nobody bothered to define the exact meaning of Democracy or Fascism, except to regard the former as something very splendid and the latter as very vile. So, at the risk of seeming a deadly bore, I will give one man's notion of both. And if you disagree that is your Democratic privilege.

I PRESUME THAT THE TRUE principle of democracy has not changed since I learned my penmanship exercises in the little red schoolhouse — which was "The greatest good for the greatest number" with popular government to that end. Do we all agree with that aphorism!

And, as we learned our last painful lesson from the late European Axis, Fascism is "the infliction of selfish interest by force and coercion from any activist minority upon an unwilling and defenseless majority." Do you agree that the original, pre-war minority gangs of Hitler, Mussolini and Franco fit that definition. I think you do!

You must recall how these rabid, activist minorities of Italy, Germany and Spain infiltrated into government; first appearing as innocent political groups with popular slogans and appeal. They didn't look dangerous! They preached an ultra-Democracy! But once they were installed in power they stripped off the mask of benevolence and used fear as their weapon. Honest speech expired! Free enterprise, individualism and initiative became captive to the greed of self-willed cliques. The dismayed masses found it was too late. Democracy was dead. Fascism was mid-wifed!

We Americans know that now at the cost of a quarter million dead 750,000 wounded and $300,000,000,000. It cost us heavily to find that Fascism works like a malignant microbe through a small cut in the social skin. We watched it spread from a minor surface sore to a creeping paralysis through the national bloodstream until it ended in Democratic palsy.

It was the germ of political polio which attacked nations already weakened by industrial and social excesses until the will to resist was gone. So a minority microbe infected, multiplied and paralyzed the entire system.

We Americans like to believe ourselves invulnerable to Europe's social distempers. We like to think, "It can't happen to us." But our nation is at a low tide of resistance too, after years of exhaustive war, political excesses and social experiment. We too find ourselves in a mood to compromise with radical minorities, as did that great pre-war conciliator, England's Neville Chamberlain at Munich. That is the futile philosophy of "Peace in our time." Fascism relied on Democratic weakness and timidity toward strong activism.

America too has its coercive minorities, pressure groups already inflicting selfish interests on a timid, unwilling majority. The refusal of the UWA to obey the requests of President Truman to forsake its work stoppages, cannot be for "the greatest good for the greatest number," at a time when America is struggling to gain a foothold on the beachheads of industrial conversion.

THE THREAT IS NOT ALONE to our markets. It is on the great, temperate majority of unionized America, the microbe of first infection which points to national paralysis and the social polio called the "economy of scarcities." That means a gradual dwindling of the red corpuscles called, "private savings," the drying tissue called "essential goods," the swelling infection of "depreciated currency." It's labors disease as well as anybody's.

The President asks for a period of healthy, postwar convalescence between labor, management and politics which will lead to "an economy of plenty." He wants to restore the bloodstream of "fluid wealth," the muscle-building of "productive volume" and the digestive process of "consumer capacity."

Then America will be ready and sympathetic to share its profits with ALL workers, including the majority which is not and cannot be unionized. That is to create higher living standards for EVERYBODY. That's the "greatest good for the greatest number." Well, isn't it?

This pillar of cracker barrel philosophy receives many letters from labor activities which simmer down to the central theme, "We are striking for the same thing our soldiers fought for—the democratic right to a decent wage scale." That is half truth and therefore twice as dangerous.

Ask our soldiers and they'll say, "We fought to oblige people to settle their quarrels by peaceful arbitration and mutual concessions in conference instead of by violence and coersive force." And that same principle applies to internal disputes within American industry.

The UAW and its minority of affiliated unions struck first without appeal to reason. It launched what threatens to become a creeping paralysis with small attempt at concesison or arbitration. It defies mediation by the President. And meanwhile returning soldiers look hopefully for jobs and the majority of Americans wait hopefully for the Federal Doctor. Does anything in this depict the difference between the two little words?

Maryland Racing Head Denies Saliva 'Scheme'

BALTIMORE, Dec. 10 (AP)—Chairman George P. Mahoney of the Maryland Racing Commission, presiding at a hearing for Clay Sutphin, one of five trainers suspended on horse stimulation charges, angrily denied today any "scheme" to manipulate saliva tests made on horses at Pimlico. The trainers were suspended Nov. 29 pending hearings after chemists reported finding stimulants in horses which ran at Pimlico last month.

Announcing the suspensions then, Mahoney said the commission had changed chemists for the saliva tests, continuing, however, to send samples from Frederick county work horses to the New York commission. The New York group had made the tests previously for Maryland.

Philip B. Perlman, one of Sutphin's attorneys, asked a commission witness, Dr. Jack Ladsom, if he knew of any "scheme" to manipulate the tests. Dr. Ladsom, a veterinarian, said he did not know work horse samples had been sent to New York "until I read it in the papers."

"We'd like to know," Perlman said, "why these manipulations were going on. We don't know and we think we have a right to know."

"We resent the word 'scheme'," Mahoney interjected sharply, denying the charge and adding that the commission had given horsemen every courtesy.

"Do you know of any samples sent to the New York Racing Commission or to Maryland chemists which were impregnated with some drugs before they were sent?" Perlman asked the witness.

"No," Dr. Ladsom replied.

Before the hearing began, the commission announced a one-year suspension effective today against Trainer J. D. (Dolly) Byers on charges that the horse Cosey, winner of the steeplechase race at Pimlico Nov. 14, had been stimulated by benzedrine.

Weiland, Beisler Fined $100 by AHL

NEW HAVEN, Dec. 10 (AP) - Pres. Maurice Podoloff of the American Hockey League today fined coaches Cooney Weiland of New Haven and Frank Beisler of Buffalo $100 each, he said, for refusing to obey referees' orders to leave the bench.

Podoloff decared that he had specified that the fine must be paid by Weiland and Beisler and not their clubs.

Rock Fans Bet $107 Per Day

If you fellows who shove part of your folding money through the mutuel windows at race tracks wonder just where it goes, a bit of statistical data on the situation may be enlightening.

An Associated Press survey reveals a total of $1,306,514,314 was bet on the bangtails during the past year in the 18 states of the country where mutuel wagering is legalized. State treasuries got $65,484,121.30 of that count.

The record high in betting was achieved although there were 61 fewer days of racing in 1945 because of the government shutdown of tracks in the transportation crisis early in the year.

Statistics show turf fans bet an average of $75.70 each per racing day, while New Hampshire's one small track, Rockingham, came out with an almost fabulous average of $107.99 per fan per day.

Harvard Hoop Fans Now 'Gray-Minded'

By HERB FINNEGAN

Wyndol Gray of Harvard wears only one No. 7 on his jersey but, Navy willing, he'll make that single 7 more famous than the "77" worn by Red Grange and Stan Koslowski. The Crimson basketeer, via Bowling Green, can carry the ball.

He proved that amid cheers and jeers while Harvard was giving MIT a two-for-one drubbing.

"Give it to Gray," chorused the tightly-packed audience in the early stages of the game. "Give somebody else a chance to score, Gray," yelped the same gallery after the all-America dunked five baskets in 'steen seconds as the second half opened.

Gray gave everybody else a chance to score, but the everybody else collectively couldn't hit the bucket as often as Gray did individually, so the very same audience pitched: "Shoot yourself, Gray."

Thus it went. This was the first game of the season for both Harvard and Tech. Team-work wasn't as smooth as it will be later. At times Gray sped down the floor, faked a basket with one hand, passed to a wide-open team-mate with another. So startled were his mates that half the time they didn't catch the ball.

Gray is everything to basketball that Eddie Doherty was to BC's '42 T-formation eleven. Spectators can't tell to whom or if or when he'll pass. By the time Harvard plays veteran Tufts on Wed., Dec. 19, however, you'll see the best basketball in these parts and the best basketball player since Fiddle Morley and Snappy O'Connell were snapping them in for the Fittons. The boy from Bowling Green can bowl.

Harvard seems on the way to an undefeated basketball season —IF . . . Nine of Harvard's leading 13 basketeers are in the Navy group, and it is whispered that Navy will suspend V-12 operations on Jan. 15, not later than Jan. 31. ROTC will continue, however, and several of the V-12 athletes will become ROTC's if athletic directors call Washington . . . Seemed funny for blocking back Tom Tennant to go into the game as a last-minute sub. Yet such is the talent of Lou Desci of Bucknell, Jack Gantt of Bowling Green, Saul Mariaschin of Brooklyn that Tennant will be fortunate to make his letter . . . Steve Davis, freshman first baseman and basketball spare, looks like varsity football material. "Never played it," said the Winetka, Ill., lad who stands 6-2, weighs 200 and who is very footsey.

Happy Chandler Fights Rebellion Against Rule

By JACK CONWAY

ALBERT BENJAMIN Chandler, a former U. S. Senator from Kentucky who currently is drawing down $50,000 a year under a seven-year contract as high commissioner of baseball, will be fighting to retain his waning power over the national game at the meeting of the major leagues which opened at Chicago today.

The high commissioner of baseball was a smiling, gracious individual during the days he paraded through the Halls of Congress and occasionally made a trip to his native Kentucky to see thoroughbred race horses give tests of speed and endurance while the cash customers poured money into the mutuel windows. In those days, Happy loved the people and they in return voted for him, while he frankly admitted he enjoyed seeing the dobbins in action.

Happy Chandler

During the war the carefree Happy was friendly to the baseball interests who control the destinies of every young man who wishes to play the national pastime in Organized Baseball. He advised on how to keep baseball going during the war.

With the war still on, High Commissioner Landis died. Some of the shrewder minds in baseball suggested at the time that the vacated berth be left open until peace had been restored. Other persons, especially those favorable to the Chandler candidacy, favored the immediate appointment of a successor to Landis. Chandler got the job and he had reason to be happy with his seven-year contract at $50,000 a year with unlimited traveling expenses.

WHILE BASEBALL accepted the rulings of Judge Landis without too much opposition, many persons who owned and managed ball clubs resented Happy Chandler from the moment he took office. They felt he was neither a jurist like Landis nor a solid baseball man. They could not see how a politician was going to benefit baseball over a period of years.

The war was still on, however, and there were transportation and other problems facing baseball. It was decided that the best thing to do was to go along with Chandler and accept his orders as far as possible.

Chandler did not build his popularity once he took office. If anything, he grew weaker.

The climax occurred at the minor league meeting at Columbus when the magnates refused approval of suggestions made by Chandler. It was an open rebellion against the High Commissioner.

The minor leagues also approved the Pacific Coast League withdrawing from their organization and being set up as a third major league. For the present the minors are willing that their resolutions be submitted to the major leagues under usual procedure, but it is not any secret that many of the magnates plan for much stronger action if their wishes are not granted.

BASEBALL ACTED very smugly during the war. While it contributed much less than racing to war charities, it received numerous favorable rulings. It was considered good politics to reward Happy Chandler for what he had done to aid baseball.

Now that the war is over, the supporters of Chandler cannot keep other owners in line. It is expected that the high commissioner will receive serious opposition at the Chicago meeting. He will be fighting to save his position as ruler of the national pastime.

While Happy has a seven-year contract as the overlord of the national pastime, it is doubtful if he could wish to see it through if he were told that he did not have the support of the major league clubs. In that event, Happy might effect a settlement on his contract and return to politics.

Chandler's friends and enemies are massed on the Chicago battlefront and there is sure to be some tall shooting before the big league meetings end.

ZIVIC-HUDSON TONIGHT

NEW YORK, Dec. 10 (INS)—Fritzie Zivic of Pittsburgh, former welterweight champion, meets Cecil Hudson, Los Angeles Negro, in the feature 10-round bout at Madison Square Garden tonight.

Zollo May Meet Tartar in Campa

Bobby Zollo of Providence, who has won 18 of his last 20 bouts by kayos, will meet a severe ring test when he clashes with Rudy Campa of Los Angeles in a 10-round bout at a Callahan A. C. show at Mechanics building tonight.

Campa has shown first class fistic ability in bouts in California.

Johnny Cesario of the North End will also be opposed by rugged opposition when he tangles up with Tom Daniels of Pittsburgh. When these men met recently, Daniels scored a knockdown in the fifth round, but lost in the following session when he suffered a deep wound over one of his eyes.

Matchmaker Sam Silverman will offer two other 10-round bouts. Jack (Spider) Armstrong, of Boston, will take on Joey Gatto of Brooklyn, while Joe Curcio of Newark will battle Benny Singleton, former New England featherweight champion who now is a full fledged welterweight.

Basketball in School Getaway

By MIKE GILLOOLY

Schoolboy hockey, off to a flying start before record crowds this past week-end, will have to make room on the sports schedule for basketball this week with a tremendous blast lifting the lid on the court season at the Boston Garden and at Gloucester where there'll be 10 teams participating in the North Shore Tournament.

On the North Station floor, there'll be three games with the Catholic Leaguers opening up the season Thursday afternoon, one day ahead of the Fisherman's nifty fry Friday.

Director Bill Mokray has arranged a schoolboy schedule that will carry over eight dates. This first program will list St. Mary's of Waltham vs. St. Mary's of Lynn; St. Charles of Waltham vs. Cathedral of the South End and Mission of Roxbury against St. John's of Danvers. Mission is defending champion of the Southern division of the Catholic League.

The entire hockey program will be concentrated on Saturday. The senior Greater Boston circuit will take over the Garden ice in the afternoon; the Bay Staters and the Eastern Mass. loops will have the Arena surface in the afternoon and evening while the Catholic group will retain the Skating Club Saturday night. There'll be 15 games wrapped up in 10-hours time.

The first GBI session marked Arlington, Rindge Tech and Medford as the teams to watch . . . Coach Charlie Downs' first Arlington line of Don Sennott, Bill Coveney and Jim McCutcheon may prove the high scoring trio for the season . . . but Rindge isn't far behind with Dick Briand, Len Gagnon and Al Robichaud . . . Medford looks especially stingy in giving up goals . . . The schedule pits: Belmont vs. Rindge; Arlington vs. Melrose; Stoneham vs. Medford; Cambridge vs. Newton.

In the Bay State circuit, Waltham High's twin front lines will be very hard to stop, as it's 8-0 trouncing of experienced Wellesley proved . . . Coach Walter Brinn has power in a first wave of Dick Stumpf, Irving Haynes and Jim Bell . . . and plenty of scoring punch in Harry Waterhouse, Dick Bartlett and Dick Dugan . . . the Watch City club faces Framingham next.

Other Bay State contests match Wellesley against an improving Watertown; Norwood against Walpole and it's consistent Harold Songin again ranking as one of the best in the league; and B. C. High against a threatening Needham . . . and keep an eye on the Eaglets under Coach Johnnie Temple.

The Eastern Mass. schedule pairs Dedham vs. Hudson; Somerville vs. Natick; Malden vs. Wakefield and Brookline vs. Lexington . . . the Catholic League has St. Clement's vs. St. Patrick's; St. Mary's of Lynn vs. Malden Catholic and St. Mary's of Waltham vs. St. Sebastian's of Newton.

Brimsek Great, Says Cashman

By BILL GRIMES

Well, the "I told you so boys (and they include all of the other N. H. L. managers and coaches) went into action after learning that the Bruins had been beaten 8 to 3 by the Blackhawks last night in Chicago. Poor Frankie Brimsek. After what happened to him, "Brimmy" probably is still dodging flying pucks. It was one of the worst defeats of his career but not entirely unexpected.

Joe Cashman, the Record's sport authority, saw Brimsek's return to pro hockey after an absence of two years.

"Brimsek really was great," said the "Chairman" over the telephone after thegame. "He was under terrific pressure throughout the contest. And,to complicate matters, his mates didn't give him much support. Time and again, hewas left on his own and it was a miracle that the Hawks didn't fill thenets with pucks. So, don't sell Brimsek short. He's still tops even in the face of that eight-goal barrage which dropped on him."

Manager Art Ross was well aware that the odds were against him when he decided to play Brimsek in the nets against the Hawks. He knew that the Windy City aggregation is the highest scorers in the league. But, he was obligated to get Brimsek back in the regular line up. So, he took the gamble and lost.

Just as soon as Paul Bibeault began to get "hot," the N. H. L. managers started to concern themselves over the decision Art Ross had to make because he had announced for publication that returnees would have their jobs back.

One after the other, Dick Irvin, "Hap" Day, Frankie Boucher, Jack Adams and Johnny Gottselig shed crocodile tears for "Uncle" Arthur. "I'm glad it's Ross and not I, who's going to bench Bibeault. It's too tough a decision for me," they remarked, as though they had rehearsed the lines.

With the exception of Ross, there isn't a manager in the league who would have had the courage of his convictions, or if you prefer, the courage to carry out such a commitment.

Naturally, the fans are teeing off on "Uncle" Arthur today. They are pointing to the fact that with Mons Paul in the nets, the Bruins were on the losing end of only one game out of their last nine. Their morale is low because the Rossmen are back in fourth place as a result of last night's defeat.

But, there will be 12,900 cash customers at the Boston Garden Wednesday when the Bruins play a return date with the Detroit Red Wings.

The Red Wings and Rangers squared their series with Canadiens and the Maple Leafs respectively last night.

Braves Wait Night Play Limit

By JOE CASHMAN

CHICAGO, Ill., Dec. 11—In case you've forgotten Boston will see its first major league night ball next season. Work on installing lights at Braves Field already have completed by mid-May.

The question of how many moonlight melees the Tribe will schedule at the Wigwam as soon as the National League decides on its post-war night ball policy: a decision which will be reached either today or tomorrow.

Prior to Pearl Harbor the N. L. had a rule limiting each club to seven night games at home. This regulation was suspended for the duration. Immediately 14 such games became the minimum, with the St. Louis Cardinals booking 40 or more.

The war over, the magnates must now decide whether to return to the old seven-game rule, boost the maximum to 14 or 21 or to drop all bars.

The Cards will battle for a no-maximum rule but the chances are a limit will be set. The majority appears to favor a 14-game rule, but the argument over the matter may result in a 21-game compromise. There's slim possibilities that the original seven-game law will survive.

It's likely that the Braves will schedule 14 home games under the arcs. Boston weather being what it is, it wouldn't be practical for the Tribe to list a larger number.

New England nights usually are too cool for fan comfort at an outdoor athletic event save during the months of July and August and more than 14 night games over that two-month period probably half of which the Tribe would spend at home—would be too much of a good thing.

The American League, also, must settle the night ball question, but the junior circuits' solution won't have lights next season. By 1947 or 1948 though, there'll be arcs at the Fens it is believed.

Ski Season Is Set for Opening

By "TAP" GOODENOUGH

New England skiers have circled the date, Dec. 15, next Saturday, in red, for it means the "green light" will flash for the official opening of all the major schuss centers, snow conditions permitting!

All set to roar into action are the Cannon Mt. Tramway, at Franconia; the Belknap Mt. Recreational Area, Laconia; three tows at Plymouth; and the vast Eastern Slope Region, each located in New Hampshire . . . The rolling terrain of Vermont offers the giant chair lift at Mt. Mansfield; Snow Valley's nice facilities, at Manchester, with Big Bromley nearby; plus tempting Pico Peak, Rutland.

In the Berkshires of Massachusetts, Farnum's and Bousquet's spots are ready for record crowds . . . The Pleasant Mt. Development, near Bridgton, Maine, will also operate, as will the Camden Snow Bowl.

SKI SCRIBBLINGS: Stressing skiing for Juniors is the Scandinavian Ski Club, of Worcester, which is planning several meets for youthful competitors. This outfit will sponsor the Mass. Championship Cross Country and Jumping for Seniors, to be contested on Newell Road Hill, in Holden, Jan. 20th, five miles outside the city.

Last year's winner, Charles Blum, of the Norsemen Ski Club, N. Y., will be on the hickories, in addition to scores of other stars from all over the East . . . And poling and pushing in the cross-country grind will be the club's president, Sig Lundquist, who loves to cover plenty of distance on his slippery slats.

Boston's Oshoni Ski Club found that its lodge at Bristol, N. H., had acquired a slight "list" during the war years, so the gang is trying to lease the former abode of the "35" Ski Club, a few miles away . . . Pres. Ray Howlett is out of the service, wondering how he can get those twin sons on skis this winter!

Bud Ward Confident After Golf Test

SPOKANE, Wash., Dec. 10 (AP)—Bud Ward, national amateur golf champion, says he is more confident about defending his "duration" title next summer since he has played his first practice round.

Ward, in his first real game since September, 1943, covered 12 holes at the Spokane Country Club in five under par.

SOLEM RELEASE SEEN

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Dec. 10 (INS)—Ossie Solem was slated today to be released as Syracuse's football coach, with Clarence Munn, Michigan line coach, favored as his successor.

Shoeless Star

MOSCOW, Ida., Dec. 10 (AP)—Center Jack Phoenix, freshman who won a starting berth on the University of Idaho basketball team, expects to do even better when he gets some shoes.

The six-foot nine-inch center who had been unable to find basketball shoes to fit him, played five minutes in his stockings against Gonzaga University of Spokane, Wash. He scored 11 points.

Arms-Carrying Yacht Seized

The 68-foot yacht Harpoon II, which figured in a spectacular harbor chase last October, was seized today by the alcoholic tax unit on the charge she carried contraband firearms.

The yacht was registered in the name of Edward Rasmussen, who, with three other men, was found guilty in Suffolk court last week of robbery and carrying firearms. Rasmussen and Frank Feeney were arrested Oct. 5 after police chased a motor tender from the Harpoon across the harbor to Squantum.

3 Fall Dead, 2 in Hub Streets

Three sudden deaths occured in Boston today. William Quimby, 51, Longwood Towers, Brookline, a lawyer; William Saidel, 53, Holborn st., Roxbury, and Phillip Souter, 57, Central ave., Milton, a broker, collapsed and died of heart attacks.

Quimby collapsed at Washington and Water sts., Saidel was stricken in the Roxbury home of a real estate dealer, and Souter collapsed while entering his Congress st., office.

Nazi Who Killed 2 U. S. Fliers Hanged

FRANKFURT, Dec. 10 (INS)—Franz Strasser, Austrian-born Nazi, was hanged at Landsberg prison today for the murder of two American airmen forced down on German soil last December.

Young Best Ever Says Dick Hanley

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 10 (AP)—The Army can have Glenn Davis and Doc Blanchard. The fleet city Navy—and the sports writers and football followers who saw him unwind three spectacular scoring runs against the L. Toro Marines—will take Claude (Buddy) Young.

Young, 160-pound Chicagoan, who played one year at Illinois, returned a kick off 94 yards and a punt 88 yards for touchdowns the first two times he touched the ball yesterday as the Bluejackets captured the unofficial service grid title, 48-25.

"The greatest runner I have ever seen—bar none," said Lt. Col. Dick Hanley, coach of the Marines. And Hanley has seen most of the greats of the last three decades.

Jack Cronin Eyes N. Orleans Test

PROVIDENCE, Dec. 10 (AP)—Having tacked up his 12th football championship since he assumed the head coaching duties in 1929, scholarly Jack Cronin today turned to the task of preparing his undefeated, untied La Salle Academy squad for its game against Holy Cross College of New Orleans there on Sunday, Dec. 23.

New Orleans fans will see a well-conditioned, hard-charging line and a smart, versatile backfield operating from the explosive T-formation. The quartet of Co-Capt. Dan Pamciera, Ed Bagdanovitch, Co.-Capt. Matt Gigliellmetti and his son, Bud Cronin, is rated by Cronin as one of the best backfields he has ever coached.

Rated as one of the outstanding schoolboy coaches in the country, Cronin said he has turned down numerous college offers because he would "rather work with boys between 16 and 18 years old."

GM Cancels CIO Contract

DETROIT, Dec. 10 (AP)—General Motors today terminated its contract with the CIO United Automobile Workers whose 20-day-old strike has idled 213,000 GM workers and stopped the corporation's production.

BOOST FOR SHOEWORKERS

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 10 (AP)—The Brown Shoe Co. of St. Louis today announced a 10 per cent general wage increase for more than 9000 employes in Missouri, Illinois, Indiana, Tennessee and Arkansas.
